THE French franc went up yesterday, the pound sterling went down. Britain is worried by labor troubles and a special session of parliament is called for Monday. It will again give the government emergency powers, and another effort will be made to make labor work, as aristocracy thinks it ought to work.

FRANCE is fairly cheerful, and probably enjoys the joke, when a solemn, well-fed American banker says, "France's only hope is in great thrift, utmost thrift."

Americans do not know what thrift means except as a word in the dictionary. Every French child could teach that banker thrift.

SWEET ALICE WALL STREET shot up yesterday, all ready for a good cry, and burst into bullish smiles, as soon as the ticker began ticking.

All the goblins in the world seemed to be let loose when talk came of gigantic tariff reductions, and Wall Street beat its breast.

But President Coolidge and Secretary Mellon let it be known that they will do all they can to co-operate in tariff reduction, but not American tariff reduction.

ALSO Mr. Mellon hears that J. P. Morgan denies that he signed any international bankers' tariff out appeal. That comforted Wall Street. Down there they are interested in Morgan as Kipling's bandarlog were interested in the comings and goings of the black panther.

CARBICELLA BROTHERS AND TWO OTHERS HELD IN WELLSVILLE MURDER

Chief of Police John H. Fultz Makes Surprise Arrests Early Today Upon His Return From Cleveland Where Other Suspects Were Captured Yesterday and Later Brought to Lisbon.

MIKE SCIO AND MIKE KAZANNO ARE APPREHENDED IN FOREST CITY

Rocco Carbicella, Who, With Frank Fusco, Was Convicted of Attempted Bribery in Connection with Sheriff's Inquiry Into Slaying of Patrolman, and Bennie Carbicella in Jail.

With the surprise arrest of Rocco and Bennie Carbicella, brothers, of Wellsville, this morning at 4 o'clock at their homes there, on charges of first degree murder the number of suspects now held in connection with the death of Patrolman James Kenney on May 17 was increased to five, the largest number of persons ever held at one time in Columbiana county history on a murder charge.

The arrest of the Carbicella brothers followed closely in the wake of other unexpected developments in the case at Cleveland yesterday when Mike Scioa and Mike Kazanno, both residents of Cleveland, were placed in custody by Chief of Police John Fultz, of Wellsville.

The two Carbicellas, Scioa and Kazanno were arraigned on murder charges this morning at 4:30 o'clock before Justice M. K. Zimerman, at Lisbon. Each pleaded not guilty and was held for the grand jury without bond.

Rocco Carbicella, along with Frank Fusco, was convicted recently of attempted bribery in connection with the Kenney murder inquiry. They now are awaiting a court ruling on a motion for a new trial.

Nick Scaccuto, arrested in Wellsville in a house near Central park a few hours after the discovery of the patrolman's body, is awaiting trial on a first degree murder indictment

Joseph Fusco, whose case was continued by the grand jury, is another figure in the murder case.

Arrests in Cleveland.

The arrest of Scioa and Kazanno was made by Chief Fultz in Cleveland Friday with the assistance of Cleveland detectives, Carl Zucarelli and John Corso. Early this week, Fultz got a tip that these two men had been in Wellsville at the time of the Kenney slaying. Fultz went to Cleveland Thursday and Sheriff George Wright and Deputy Kindsvatter met him in the Fifth city yesterday.

Kazanno and Scoia were brought from Cleveland last night and immediately after the return of the authorities, they drove to Wellsville, getting Rocco Carbicella out of bed at his home in Main street and Bennie Carbicella at his home in Broadway.

Both were taken to the Lisbon jail by Sheriff Wright and Deputy Kindsvatter, and upon their arrival the quartet, including the Cleveland suspects, were arraigned before Justice Zimerman.

Action of the city and county authorities followed disclosures said to have been made during the last week.

Special Venire of Jurors.

A special venire of jurors will be drawn when the case against Scacutto is called to trial in common pleas court.

Seventy-five names are to be drawn from the jury wheel under the new law, and these will not be persons who previously have been drawn for duty.

It is probable that this case will be assigned for trial during November.

MISS CHRISTINE MacLEOD, HIGH SCHOOL SENIOR, TELLS WHY DISTRICT VOTERS SHOULD APPROVE PROPOSED 2.3 MILL LEVY ON TUESDAY, NOV. 2

[Editor's Note—"Let us take an interest in the intellectual standard of our community," urges Christine MacLeod, daughter of Rev. Dr. D. W. MacLeod, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, who as a senior in high school, today wrote the following appeal for approval of the 2.3 mill school levy at the Nov. 2 election.]

By CHRISTINE MACLEOD.

Citizens of East Liverpool. I beg of you to think with me concerning the passing of the 2.3 mill school levy.

Perhaps you do not have sons or daughters in school and you feel that the passing of the school levy will be of no benefit to you, but do not let such a mistake deceive you.

You who have sons or daughters in school ought to be interested in this levy and back it. Do you want your child to attend the school where the training will either be shortened, or where the work will necessarily have to be so rushed that they will be deprived of the knowledge of many fundamentals which are invaluable?

You who have children preparing for college, realize that they cannot enter into any college with such an abbreviated course.

You who have children who are not going to college, but who wish to enter the commercial or business world, must realize that no business man wishes to take into his employ anyone whose course of preparation has been rushed or not fully completed.

Perhaps you may say, "I did not have an education, and I am getting along in this world, why do my children need it?" You must remember that the world of today is very different from that of twenty-five years ago. People today realize the importance of education, and having so many educated people from which to choose, they do not wish to employ those without this advancement.

Besides, do you wish to keep your children back from that which is their first right and due, because you yourself did not have that privilege?

One of the great characteristics of in American race is the fact that they have never been satisfied to remain in the rut of their ancestors, but have pushed forward to greater knowledge. Your child may have hidden qualities which only the school can bring out. Do not deprive him of knowledge.

Perhaps you do not consider that one of the greatest expenses of having a child in school is paid by the school, that is the buying of books. In many cities the children are compelled to buy their own books. In East Liverpool they are saved that expense. The cost of a child per year in East Liverpool is $50.00. In most places that cost is $60, $70, $80, $90 and up. Elyria with about the same population and one thousand fewer pupils contributed one-half more to the schools, while in Steubenville the income was double that of this city.

You who do not have children in school should realize the effect of the schools upon the community. In a ocuntry where government depends upon the consent of the governed, the coming citizens must be taught citizenship in their youth. This training they receive from the schools. Since the beginning of our government, intelligent men have realized the importance of this.

The only clause of the famous ordinance of 1787 that is now remembered is the following: "Religion, morality, and knowledge being necessary to good government and the happiness of mankind, schools and the means of education should forever be encouraged." A person with a well-trained mind can make a much wider application of his experiences than one who does not possess this training. Therefore, it follows: that of all the forces that work for man's education, the school has the most direct and most widespread influence.

The school levy is comparatively small, especially in consideration of the vast benefits reaped from it. Do you wish to live in a community where the education of its citizens has been limited? Slowly the intelligence of the community would decrease. Do you not feel it your duty to see that this does not occur?

There are 5,401 pupils enrolled in the public schools of this city.

Each pupil is a separate and dis-

CARBICELLA BROTHERS AND TWO OTHERS HELD IN WELLSVILLE MURDER

Chief of Police John H. Fultz Makes Surprise Arrests Early Today Upon His Return From Cleveland Where Other Suspects Were Captured Yesterday and Later Brought to Lisbon.

MIKE SCIO AND MIKE KAZANNO ARE APPREHENDED IN FOREST CITY

Rocco Carbicella, Who, With Frank Fusco, Was Convicted of Attempted Bribery in Connection with Sheriff's Inquiry Into Slaying of Patrolman, and Bennie Carbicella in Jail.

With the surprise arrest of Rocco and Bennie Carbicella, brothers, of Wellsville, this morning at 4 o'clock at their homes there, on charges of first degree murder the number of suspects now held in connection with the death of Patrolman James Kenney on May 17 was increased to five, the largest number of persons ever held at one time in Columbiana county history on a murder charge.

The arrest of the Carbicella brothers followed closely in the wake of other unexpected developments in the case at Cleveland yesterday when Mike Scioa and Mike Kazanno, both residents of Cleveland, were placed in custody by Chief of Police John Fultz, of Wellsville.

The two Carbicellas, Scioa and Kazanno were arraigned on murder charges this morning at 4:30 o'clock before Justice M. K. Zimerman, at Lisbon. Each pleaded not guilty and was held for the grand jury without bond.

Rocco Carbicella, along with Frank Fusco, was convicted recently of attempted bribery in connection with the Kenney murder inquiry. They now are awaiting a court ruling on a motion for a new trial.

Nick Scaccuto, arrested in Wellsville in a house near Central park a few hours after the discovery of the patrolman's body, is awaiting trial on a first degree murder indictment

Joseph Fusco, whose case was continued by the grand jury, is another figure in the murder case.

Arrests in Cleveland.

The arrest of Scioa and Kazanno was made by Chief Fultz in Cleveland Friday with the assistance of Cleveland detectives, Carl Zucarelli and John Corso. Early this week, Fultz got a tip that these two men had been in Wellsville at the time of the Kenney slaying. Fultz went to Cleveland Thursday and Sheriff George Wright and Deputy Kindsvatter met him in the Fifth city yesterday.

Kazanno and Scoia were brought from Cleveland last night and immediately after the return of the authorities, they drove to Wellsville, getting Rocco Carbicella out of bed at his home in Main street and Bennie Carbicella at his home in Broadway.

Both were taken to the Lisbon jail by Sheriff Wright and Deputy Kindsvatter, and upon their arrival the quartet, including the Cleveland suspects, were arraigned before Justice Zimerman.

Action of the city and county authorities followed disclosures said to have been made during the last week.

Special Venire of Jurors.

A special venire of jurors will be drawn when the case against Scaccuto is called to trial in common pleas court.

Seventy-five names are to be drawn from the jury wheel under the new law, and these will not be persons who previously have been drawn for duty.

It is probable that this case will be assigned for trial during November.

MISS CHRISTINE MacLEOD, HIGH SCHOOL SENIOR, TELLS WHY DISTRICT VOTERS SHOULD APPROVE PROPOSED 2.3 MILL LEVY ON TUESDAY, NOV. 2

[Editor's Note—"Let us take an interest in the intellectual standard of our community," urges Christine MacLeod, daughter of Rev. Dr. D. W. MacLeod, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, who as a senior in high school, today wrote the following appeal for approval of the 2.3 mill school levy at the Nov. 2 election.]

By CHRISTINE MACLEOD.

Citizens of East Liverpool. I beg of you to think with me concerning the passing of the 2.3 mill school levy.

Perhaps you do not have sons or daughters in school and you feel that the passing of the school levy will be of no benefit to you, but do not let such a mistake deceive you.

You who have sons or daughters in school ought to be interested in this levy and back it. Do you want your child to attend the school where the training will either be shortened, or where the work will necessarily have to be so rushed that they will be deprived of the knowledge of many fundamentals which are invaluable?

You who have children preparing for college, realize that they cannot enter into any college with such an abbreviated course.

You who have children who are not going to college, but who wish to enter the commercial or business world, must realize that no business man wishes to take into his employ anyone whose course of preparation has been rushed or not fully completed.

Perhaps you may say, "I did not have an education, and I am getting along in this world, why do my children need it?" You must remember that the world of today is very different from that of twenty-five years ago. People today realize the importance of education, and having so many educated people from which to choose, they do not wish to employ those without this advancement.

Besides, do you wish to keep your children back from that which is their first right and due, because you yourself did not have that privilege?

One of the great characteristics of in American race is the fact that they have never been satisfied to remain in the rut of their ancestors, but have pushed forward to greater knowledge. Your child may have hidden qualities which only the school can bring out. Do not deprive him of knowledge.

Perhaps you do not consider that one of the greatest expenses of having a child in school is paid by the school, that is the buying of books. In many cities the children are compelled to buy their own books. In East Liverpool they are saved that expense. The cost of a child per year in East Liverpool is $50.00. In most places that cost is $60, $70, $80, $90 and up. Elyria with about the same population and one thousand fewer pupils contributed one-half more to the schools, while in Steubenville the income was double that of this city.

You who do not have children in school should realize the effect of the schools upon the community. In a ocuntry where government depends upon the consent of the governed, the coming citizens must be taught citizenship in their youth. This training they receive from the schools. Since the beginning of our government, intelligent men have realized the importance of this.

The only clause of the famous ordinance of 1787 that is now remembered is the following: "Religion, morality, and knowledge being necessary to good government and the happiness of mankind, schools and the means of education should forever be encouraged." A person with a well-trained mind can make a much wider application of his experiences than one who does not possess this training. Therefore, it follows: that of all the forces that work for man's education, the school has the most direct and most widespread influence.

The school levy is comparatively small, especially in consideration of the vast benefits reaped from it. Do you wish to live in a community where the education of its citizens has been limited? Slowly the intelligence of the community would decrease. Do you not feel it your duty to see that this does not occur?

There are 5,401 pupils enrolled in the public schools of this city.

Each pupil is a separate and dis-

Juverile Bible Study

One question for each day is provided. The parent will find it interesting and helpful to have the child take up the question each day and aid it in finding the answer in the Scriptures, thus developing a knowledge of the Bible and where to find in it the things decided. Send or bring the little folks to the class Sunday at 1:45 p. m. The "Ceramic Cafeteria Auditorium," 121 West Fifth Street.

458. Who was it that betrayed Jesus into the hands of His enemies?
Answer: It was Judas, one of His twelve apostles. See Matthew 26:47-50.

459. Who was it that insisted that Jesus be crucified?
Answer: "The chief priests and officers"—those of the highest rank of the religious element of that day. See John 19:6.

460. Were the church class promised earthly blessings for their obedience?
Answer: No. They were promised that in this world they should have tribulation. See John 16:33.

461. Where they to be loved by the worldly minded Christians?
Answer: No. They were to be hated for their faithfulness to the Lord and His truth. See John 15:19; Matthew 24:9,10.

462. Did the Lord Jesus foretell that some of the Lord's true followers would be put into prison and otherwise persecuted during this - "great time of trouble?"
Answer: He did. He showed how there would be a great world war, then earthquakes (revolutions), then famines and pestilences. He then said that "before all these they shall lay hands on you and persecute you, delivering you up to the synagogues, and into prisons, being brought before kings and rulers for my name's sake." See Luke 21:10-12.

463. What people had this experience during the world war and "before all these"—before the last one named—the great "pestilence"—the "Flu?"
Answer: The Bible Students.

464. What is the hope of those that are truly the Lord's?
Answer: To be like Him (Jesus) and see Him as He is (I John 3:2); to be with Him where He is and behold His glory (John 17:24); to be heirs of God and joint-heirs with Christ and to be also glorified together with Him (Romans 8:17); to be partakers of the divine nature (II Peter 1:4); to be priests of God and of Christ and to reign with Him a thousand years (Revelation 20;5) and to be Abraham's seed (Galatians 3:29) which is to bless all the families (Genesis 12:3) and nations (Genesis 22:18) that have ever lived on the earth.

Are You Overdoing?

Hurry, Worry, and Overwork Bring Heavy Strain.

MODERN life throws a heavy burden on our bodily machinery. The eliminative organs, especially the kidneys, are apt to be overtaxed and become sluggish. Retention of excess uric acid and other poisonous waste is apt to give rise to a dull, tired feeling and, often, toxic backaches and headaches. That the kidneys are not functioning properly is sometimes shown by burning or scanty passage of secretions. More and more people are learning to assist their kidneys by drinking plenty of pure water and the occasional use of Doan's Pills—a tested stimulant diuretic. Ask your neighbor!

Juverile Bible Study

One question for each day is provided. The parent will find it interesting and helpful to have the child take up the question each day and aid it in finding the answer in the Scriptures, thus developing a knowledge of the Bible and where to find in it the things decided. Send or bring the little folks to the class Sunday at 1:45 p. m. The "Ceramic Cafeteria Auditorium," 121 West Fifth Street.

458. Who was it that betrayed Jesus into the hands of His enemies?
Answer: It was Judas, one of His twelve apostles. See Matthew 26:47-50.

459. Who was it that insisted that Jesus be crucified?
Answer: "The chief priests and officers"—those of the highest rank of the religious element of that day. See John 19:6.

460. Were the church class promised earthly blessings for their obedience?
Answer: No. They were promised that in this world they should have tribulation. See John 16:33.

461. Where they to be loved by the worldly minded Christians?
Answer: No. They were to be hated for their faithfulness to the Lord and His truth. See John 15:19; Matthew 24:9,10.

462. Did the Lord Jesus foretell that some of the Lord's true followers would be put into prison and otherwise persecuted during this "great time of trouble?"
Answer: He did. He showed how there would be a great world war, then earthquakes (revolutions), then famines and pestilences. He then said that "before all these they shall lay hands on you and persecute you, delivering you up to the synagogues, and into prisons, being brought before kings and rulers for my name's sake." See Luke 21:10-12.

463. What people had this experience during the world war and "before all these"—before the last one named—the great "pestilence"—the "Flu?"
Answer: The Bible Students.

464. What is the hope of those that are truly the Lord's?
Answer: To be like Him (Jesus) and see Him as He is (I. John 3:2); to be with Him where He is and behold His glory (John 17:24); to be heirs of God and joint-heirs with Christ and to be also glorified together with Him (Romans 8:17); to be partakers of the divine nature (II Peter 1:4); to be priests of God and of Christ and to reign with Him a thousand years (Revelation 20;5) and to be Abraham's seed (Galatians 3:29) which is to bless all the families (Genesis 12:3) and nations (Genesis 22:18) that have ever lived on the earth.

Added Beauty In an Hour

By Edna Wallace Hopper

I use a hair dressing which great experts made especially for me. It keeps my hair in curl, gives it a sheen. I never go to a hairdresser, never have a Marcel wave. Yet everyone who sees me on the stage or off marvels at my wavy, glowing hair.

Now I have placed this dressing at every woman's call. All toilet counters supply it as Edna Wallace Hopper's Wave and Sheen. The price is 75c. My guarantee comes with each bottle. If it doesn't delight you, doesn't double the beauty of your hair at once, ask for your money back.

Go try it now. It is one of the best helps I ever found for women, especially for those with bobbed hair.

British Subsidy Aid To Beet Industry; Record Production

NORWICH, Eng.—The sugar-beet industry—subsidized by the State—is going ahead by leaps and bounds in Britain.

Norfolk, the center of the industry, has grown more than 15,000 acres of beet this year. At the Centley factory, Norwich, 1,500 tons of beet can be crushed daily. Altogether, throughout Britain, the beet acreage has risen from 55,000 acres in 1925 to 125,000 acres this year, and where nine sugar factories operated last year, 14 are in full swing this year.

Prices are guaranteed by the Government and this makes the industry well worth the farmer's while. This year's crop is the finest ever known and many farmers in the great ploughland district of the Eastern Counties who scarcely knew how to make both ends meets are now finding themselves prosperous through beet.

British Subsidy Aid To Beet Industry; Record Production

NORWICH, Eng.—The sugar-beet industry—subsidized by the State—is going ahead by leaps and bounds in Britain.

Norfolk, the center of the industry, has grown more than 15,000 acres of beet this year. At the Centley factory, Norwich, 1,500 tons of beet can be crushed daily. Altogether, throughout Britain, the beet acreage has risen from 55,000 acres in 1925 to 125,000 acres this year, and where nine sugar factories operated last year, 14 are in full swing this year.

Prices are guaranteed by the Government and this makes the industry well worth the farmer's while. This year's crop is the finest ever known and many farmers in the great ploughland district of the Eastern Counties who scarcely knew how to make both ends meets are now finding themselves prosperous through beet.

Salvation Army Relief Campaign

The Salvation Army will launch a 24-hour campaign Monday for $10,000 to finance relief activities for the year ending Nov. 1, 1927, and also to meet a deficit incurred so far this year in answering appeals for assistance from the needy.

The 42-year record of the organization in the East Liverpool district is so well known that it should be unnecessary to refer to the humanitarian work of this agency which knows no creed in the distribution of food, clothing, fuel and money for rents, not to mention a score of other ways in which it aids the poor. For example, during the past year $6,671.57 has been expended by Field Major Joseph Hughes and his associates. Relief in the form of groceries, coal, clothing, etc., was given 1,213 families, or 5,171 persons. While temporary aid was provided for 4,618 others and sick relief for 258 families.

Indicative of the work among transients, the records show that 2,307 persons were given meals and lodges; 53 others received shoes, 176 were given garments, 34 received medical attention and 10 were provided transportation. In all, 17 tons of coal, 2,978 garments and 63 pices of furniture were distributed.

While the relief work has been increased since the Red Cross chapter ceased activities, this is only a part of the Salvation Army's program. The organization co-operates with court authorities and police in handling cases in which children are involved.

The American people have not forgotten the Salvation Army lassie and the part her doughnuts played in maintaining the morale of Yankee soldiers, sailors and marines during the World war.

Remember the Salvation Army slogan, "A man may be down but he is never out," and untie your purse strings Tuesday, when Campaign Chairman W. H. Vodrey and his 100 workers begin their rounds.

The Humble "Gas" Tax

Don't grudge the tax you pay when you buy gasoline—as you do everywhere in the United States except New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts and Illinois. Your two or three or four cents a gallon swells to a mighty and beneficent total, along with the other fellows' tax.

The gasoline taxes in the entire country amounted to just about $85,000,000 for the first six months of this year. The total for the year will be near $200,000,000.

Most of that money is poured directly into good roads. No wonder the motorist finds smoother going and readier access everywhere in the land. A few more years of this, with good engineering and honest spending, and America will have a matchless system of highways.

Frivolous News

"We are at the point of demoralization as a people in considering great subjects affecting national welfare," complains Congressman Theodore E. Burton. "What do we see in the papers? Bud Stillman and the girl he's going to marry. Baseball and pugilism. And then—Peaches Browning and that husband of hers!" At which point the dignified lawmaker almost turns speechless with disgust.

"That's the sort of stuff everybody is thinking about," he adds sorrowfully. "Interesting—but not enough to fill the newspapers. Let us dismiss this trivial gossip."

Fortunately it doesn't really fill the papers. There is still some room left for the Queen of Roumania, and even for the political campaign.

But, admitting that a great deal of somewhat frivolous matter does get into the papers, a humble editor is obliged to ask what Congressman Burton, or anyone else, proposes to do about the matter. For people are "thinking about it," and want it, and it's human stuff, and there's a surprising amount of humanity in human beings. Besides, no newspaper that ever tried to restrict its news to matters of sober dignity and serious import has received enough public support to pay expenses.

Europe Gets Together

A miracle seems to be happening in Europe. The quarrelling nations of that continent are drawing together. There are even business alliances among old enemies, and there is serious talk of a "European economic confederation."

Americans do not overlook the fact that a good deal of this co-operation is inspired by fear or dislike of America. There is much anti-American feeling.

It would be foolish to say that America doesn't mind that. No country wants others leagued against it, whether for war or business. Yet the situation represents an improvement. Europe had better get together, even against us, than not get together at all.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Broadway after the theatre has become a colorful bazaar. Due to traffic congestion most theatre goers walk out of the district to their cars and the street swarms with high hats, gleaming white shirts, furred shoulders and blazing headdress.

There are almost as many beggars as those strewn along the Appian Way. They are thickest around the canopies of those theatres where sentimental drama has been unfolded. They realize softened hearts may have been carried out into the night.

It is the busiest hour of a busy day for those little trinket shops where almost the entire stock is displayed in dazzling windows. The gaudy soft drink stands that bloom in the building crevices are swamped with trade. So are souvenir shops.

Instead of rushing off to cafes New York is going shopping and this is largely responsible for store rooms being sliced into cubicles for perfume parlors, jewelry, gloves, rhinestones and other glittering baubles. They thrive on after theatre trade.

Pianos thump in song sheet shops. Impudent barkers stand in front of haberdasheries. Window demonstrators display virtues of coiled wire sleeve garters, adjustable cravats, self-filling pens and pipe cleaners.

And brisk sidewalk salesmen have their hour hawking wrist watches, combination manicure sets, grotesque mechanical toys, rubber ducks that quack and pigs that grunt. They work hurriedly and indulgent police usually leave them alone.

Thousands of dollars exchange hand in this brief period of hurry-up bargaining. Nobody lingers. Patrons pop in and out in the scuttling manner of the gopher.

A rather startling illustration of the high rental for tiny Broadway shops is revealed by George Rector. His father paid a yearly rental of $12,000 for the entire building at 44th street and Broadway which housed Rector's cafe. That 15 years ago was a rent record on Broadway. Today a 12 by six soft drink stand, almost lost among the many shops in the building, pays an annual rental of $25,000.

In the screaming red-inked headlines of the Valentino passing and the Ederle arrival New York lost sight of the passing of a man who sent the impress of his genius around the world and not without a little amusement. His slogans flashed in lights on Montmarte hill near Sacre Coeur, in Kioti, Bombay and Capri. He was Milton Feasley, a young man in his early thirties from Poland, who had a burning desire to write a romantic novel and made several thousand a week writing halitosis ads.

The manner in which patent medicine quakery flourished in the Nineties is illustrated by the recent passing of a man who made a fortune selling "memory tablets" by mail. His expansive offices were on lower Fifth avenue and he appealed to the yokelry with two-inch ads, headed: "Be brilliant and Eminent!" The memory restorative tablets sold for one dollar a packet and were reputed to increase the memory "tenfold." Out of this hocus pocus was a fortune built.

And I am told the electric belt draws a slight trade in certain sections of the South as a cure all, but nowadays we are sophisticated. We like to be gypped with our eyes open and pay a ticket speculator $12 for a two dollar seat.

HASKINS' LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Gassing Moths and Bugs.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 23. — Recently the chemical warfare service was asked to co-operate with the Quartermaster Corps in aiding in the fumigation of certain materials which were in danger of being completely destroyed by moths. Every housewife knows the constant fear that during the summer months the winter clothing or woolen blankets may be attacked by these pests. It is such a tragedy to find that a favorite coat or bed covering has been ruined by moths!

The army has the same worry, only on a much longer scale than that of the ordinary householder. If moths or other destructive pests get a firm foothold in a warehouse it means a tremendous loss to Uncle Sam. It may mount into the hundreds of thousands of dollars. It therefore behooves those entrusted with the care and storage of government materials to take every possible precaution.

While many things have been found to destroy the adult moth it is very difficult to kill the worm or larva. There is one thing that will do this, although it is very dangerous to use unless the person using it is experienced. Hydrocyanic gas has been used as a fumigant for many years but it is particularly dangerous because it is practically odorless and a person working with it might be overcome without warning. The chemical war service, however, has devised a method of combining it with cyanogen chloride, which is a vigorous lachrymator. This tear gas gives sufficient warning for the operator to don a mask or get out before it is too late. In other words, when the tears begin to come it is time to leave.

It is interesting to note some of the instances where this cyanogen chloride gas mixture has been successfully used to destroy, not only moths, but bedbugs, cockroaches flour weevils and rodents. At Jeffersonville, Indiana, the stock of cloth, felt, saddles, sheep skins, blankets, and other articles of army equipment maintained at the Quartermaster Intermediate depot there, were treated with this gas.

The building was made as air tight as possible and care was taken that no unauthorized person should remain in it. Those conducting the actual experiment were equipped with a special type of gas mask devised by the chemical warfare service and instructed in its use. It was so arranged that each worker was kept in full sight of at least one other man who was prepared to go to his assistance in the event he showed any indication of being affected by the gas.

Results Wholly Satisfactory.

The building was kept closed for 24 hours and then the gas was gradually released. There was no trace of the gas for a few hours after the chambers were opened. There was no effect upon the color of the fabrics and the leather saddles were apparently undamaged. A careful examination revealed no living moths or larvae. In order to make certain of the latter, an attempt was made to incubate some of the larvae, but without success.

In another instance there was a fire station, the second floor of which was used for quarters. This building was infested with cockroaches. The first floor contained one room, the second ten rooms, two halls, and a large closet. Under one quarter of the building there was a basement. For the fumigation of this structure 20 three-gallon crocks were used—two in the basement, five on the first floor, and thirteen on the second floor. Each of them contained 1,500 cubic centimeters of water and 1,500 cubic centimeters of commercial hydrochloric aid. Three harges of six ounces sodium cyanide and three ounces sodium chlorate were used in each crock.

All the windows and outside doors were closed and the generators were started at 8 a. m. After five hours windows and doors were opened and fifteen minutes later the building was free of gas. A large number of dead crockroaches was found and also some bedbugs, although persons living in the building had not noticed the latter before that time. None of the furnishings of the rooms had been affected by the gas, nor had the silverware. The nickel and brass fittings, however, were tarnished.

A bakery which had become infested with flour weevils and cockroaches was treated with this gas and the experiment proved successful. The attic of a building used as quarters at Edgewood Arsenal, Maryland, was filled with bats. Every effort

DAVID AND GOLIATH ALL OVER AGAIN.

Somebody lately has revived one of the most ancient and honorable of wheezes. I refer to the time-honored tale of the tall Southerner who unwittingly gave offence to a friend whose feelings were touchy but whose height was diminutive. In fact, the latter was a dwarf. Any side-show would have been glad to give him a place among its star exhibits.

The big fellow was not cognizant of having insulted his high-tempered acquaintance until he felt a sudden jab in his stomach.

Naturally, he looked down. The little man, standing on tiptoe, was beating wtih two determined but puny fists at his breadbasket.

"Say," demanded the victim of this assault, "what in thunder are you trying to do?"

Between blows the infuriated midget answered back:

A miracle seems to be happening in Europe. The quarrelling nations of that continent are drawing together. There are even business alliances among old enemies, and there is serious talk of a "European economic confederation."

Americans do not overlook the fact that a good deal of this co-operation is inspired by fear or dislike of America. There is much anti-American feeling.

It would be foolish to say that America doesn't mind that. No country wants others leagued against it, whether for war or business. Yet the situation represents an improvement. Europe had better get together, even against us, than not get together at all.

Spunky Edward's Wonderful Chemical Discovery— By Fontaine Fox

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Broadway after the theatre has become a colorful bazaar. Due to traffic congestion most theatre goers walk out of the district to their cars and the street swarms with high hats, gleaming white shirts, furred shoulders and blazing headdress.

There are almost as many beggars as those strewn along the Appian Way. They are thickest around the canopies of those theatres where sentimental drama has been unfolded. They realize softened hearts may have been carried out into the night.

It is the busiest hour of a busy day for those little trinket shops where almost the entire stock is displayed in dazzling windows. The gaudy soft drink stands that bloom in the building crevices are swamped with trade. So are souvenir shops.

Instead of rushing off to cafes New York is going shopping and this is largely responsible for store rooms being sliced into cubicles for perfume parlors, jewelry, gloves, rhinestones and other glittering baubles. They thrive on after theatre trade.

Pianos thump in song sheet shops. Impudent barkers stand in front of haberdasheries. Window demonstrators display virtues of coiled wire sleeve garters, adjustable cravats, self-filling pens and pipe cleaners.

And brisk sidewalk salesmen have their hour hawking wrist watches, combination manicure sets, grotesque mechanical toys, rubber ducks that quack and pigs that grunt. They work hurriedly and indulgent police usually leave them alone.

Thousands of dollars exchange hand in this brief period of hurry-up bargaining. Nobody lingers. Patrons pop in and out in the scuttling manner of the gopher.

A rather startling illustration of the high rental for tiny Broadway shops is revealed by George Rector. His father paid a yearly rental of $12,000 for the entire building at 44th street and Broadway which housed Rector's cafe. That 15 years ago was a rent record on Broadway. Today a 12 by six soft drink stand, almost lost among the many shops in the building, pays an annual rental of $25,000.

In the screaming red-inked headlines of the Valentino passing and the Ederle arrival New York lost sight of the passing of a man who sent the impress of his genius around the world and not without a little amusement. His slogans flashed in lights on Montmarte hill near Sacre Coeur, in Kioti, Bombay and Capri. He was Milton Feasley, a young man in his early thirties from Poland, who had a burning desire to write a romantic novel and made several thousand a week writing halitosis ads.

The manner in which patent medicine quakery flourished in the Nineties is illustrated by the recent passing of a man who made a fortune selling 'memory tablets" by mail. His expansive offices were on lower Fifth avenue and he appealed to the yokelry with two-inch ads, headed: "Be brilliant and Eminent!" The memory restorative tablets sold for one dollar a packet and were reputed to increase the memory "tenfold." Out of this hocus pocus was a fortune built.

And I am told the electric belt draws a slight trade in certain sections of the South as a cure all, but nowadays we are sophisticated. We like to be gypped with our eyes open and pay a ticket speculator $12 for a two dollar seat.

HASKINS' LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Gassing Moths and Bugs.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 23. — Recently the chemical warfare service was asked to co-operate with the Quartermaster Corps in aiding in the fumigation of certain materials which were in danger of being completely destroyed by moths. Every housewife knows the constant fear that during the summer months the winter clothing or woolen blankets may be attacked by these pests. It is such a tragedy to find that a favorite coat or bed covering has been ruined by moths!

The army has the same worry, only on a much longer scale than that of the ordinary householder. If moths or other destructive pests get a firm foothold in a warehouse it means a tremendous loss to Uncle Sam. It may mount into the hundreds of thousands of dollars. It therefore behooves those entrusted with the care and storage of government materials to take every possible precaution.

While many things have been found to destroy the adult moth it is very difficult to kill the worm or larva. There is one thing that will do this, although it is very dangerous to use unless the person using it is experienced. Hydrocyanic gas has been used as a fumigant for many years but it is particularly dangerous because it is practically odorless and a person working with it might be overcome without warning. The chemical war service, however, has devised a method of combining it with cyanogen chloride, which is a vigorous lachrymator. This tear gas gives sufficient warning for the operator to don a mask or get out before it is too late. In other words, when the tears begin to come it is time to leave.

It is interesting to note some of the instances where this cyanogen chloride gas mixture has been successfully used to destroy, not only moths, but bedbugs, cockroaches flour weevils and rodents. At Jeffersonville, Indiana, the stock of cloth, felt, saddles, sheep skins, blankets, and other articles of army equipment maintained at the Quartermaster Intermediate depot there, were treated with this gas.

The building was made as air tight as possible and care was taken that no unauthorized person should remain in it. Those conducting the actual experiment were equipped with a special type of gas mask devised by the chemical warfare service and instructed in its use. It was so arranged that each worker was kept in full sight of at least one other man who was prepared to go to his assistance in the event he showed any indication of being affected by the gas.

Results Wholly Satisfactory.

The building was kept closed for 24 hours and then the gas was gradually released. There was no trace of the gas for a few hours after the chambers were opened. There was no effect upon the color of the fabrics and the leather saddles were apparently undamaged. A careful examination revealed no living moths or larvae. In order to make certain of the latter, an attempt was made to incubate some of the larvae, but without success.

In another instance there was a fire station, the second floor of which was used for quarters. This building was infested with cockroaches. The first floor contained one room, the second ten rooms, two halls, and a large closet. Under one quarter of the building there was a basement. For the fumigation of this structure 20 three-gallon crocks were used—two in the basement, five on the first floor, and thirteen on the second floor. Each of them contained 1,500 cubic centimeters of water and 1,500 cubic centimeters of commercial hydrochloric aid. Three harges of six ounces sodium cyanide and three ounces sodium chlorate were used in each crock.

All the windows and outside doors were closed and the generators were started at 8 a. m. After five hours windows and doors were opened and fifteen minutes later the building was free of gas. A large number of dead cockroaches was found and also some bedbugs, although persons living in the building had not noticed the latter before that time. None of the furnishings of the rooms had been affected by the gas, nor had the silverware. The nickel and brass fittings, however, were tarnished.

A bakery which had become infested with flour weevils and cockroaches was treated with this gas and the experiment proved successful. The attic of a building used as quarters at Edgewood Arsenal, Maryland, was filled with bats. Every effort

What Does School Levy Mean?

Editor Review:

A lot of us have spent evenings listening to the "explanations" of the school board in regard to the proposed levy for the schools. Many of us thought we understood it—but do we? "A postage stamp a day" for the man who was paying on $3,000 valuation seemed very enlightening, and easy to figure for a single year. Each could easily figure it up for a single year. The question of HOW MANY YEARS this was to keep up was answered by the officials with the simple statement, "Of course, for the life of the bonds." This was the limit of the explanation. A further explanation might have killed a few votes.

The one thing we all seem to have forgotten to ask and insist on learning was the EXACT NUMBER OF YEARS this relief was for and the total sum of money which we would have to pay if the limitation levy passed.

Section II of the published notice says, "for a period of years not exceeding the life of the bonds or notes, at the rate for each year of not exceeding 2.3 mills on each dollar."

What is the life of the bonds? Let us take the high school and Neville Institute bonds for $121,000.00. They are paid off at the rate of $3,000 a year. It is evident that it will take 40 years to pay them off—therefore, it is safe to assume that the present asked for levy will run for 40 years.

Since the taxable valuation of the East Liverpool School district amounts to approximately $34,000,000, this proposed levy of 2.3 mills (which is $2.23 per $1,000) can be made to produce an annual revenue of aproximately $75,820.00 EACH YEAR for the NEXT 40 YEARS.

A 2.23 mill levy for 40 years would produce a total of about $3,032,800. We believe the board when they say it is their intention to collect only the amount necessary to pay off outstanding bonds and interest, but as the legal notice reads we apparently would vote them (or their successors during the 40 years) the power to later change their minds.

Even though the asked-for levy was not enforced to the full amount of 2.23 but declined after 1929, as their statement of bonds shows, it is very apparent that the issue before us would still leave us in the equivalent position of voting a new bond issue to the sum total of all outstanding bonds, or around $616,740.00. Then the interest will amount to probably $900,000.00, so the sum total we are to vote to pay off is one and one-half million dollars.

If an answer is made to this communication, it is to be hoped that it will be specific, and official. I would like to see an official answer to all above statements printed in these columns and hope every person who reads this will look for and read the official statement.

Respectfully,

had been made to drive them out, but unsuccessfully. Finally it was decided to give them the gas treatment. When the building was entered, dead bats were found clinging to rafters and many had dropped to the floor. A couple were able to make them way out of openings it had been impossible to seal, but died shortly after dropping to the ground.

And the Bats Had Bugs.

Probably one of the most interesting features of this particular experiment is that these dead bats were found to be actually infested not only with lice but with bedbugs. While it has always been said that bats carry such pests, it was believed by many that this was perhaps more of a myth than a reality.

The public health service has used cyanogen chloide gas mixtures as the regular gas for fumigation purposes on ships and has issued accordingly a very strict set of regulations. These provide that a written statement must be obtained from the master of the vessel or his representative that the vessel is ready for fumigation, and that all of the crew, personnel, passengers, or others, have been accounted for as not being in or on the vessel, except those specifically authorized by the medical officer or fumigator in charge for the purpose of assisting in the fumigation.

All employes of the public health service who are engaged in the fumigation of vessels with cyanogen chloride are required to take a course of instruction in the proper care and use of gas masks.

The regulations also set forth the particular strength of the mixture, and the necessary length of exposure according to the purpose for which it is to be used. These requirements vary in the destruction of mosquitos, fleas, bedbugs, lice, roaches, moths and rodents.

Experiments have also been made by the department of agriculture in the use of cyanogen chloride gas mixture for fumigating certain types of plants. It was reported that it was this gas which was used in the execution of criminals in one of the western states some time ago. However, there was no official confirmation of this report.

It appears that this gas mixture has a varied number of uses, and may save the government considerable money. However, it is also shown that the danger from its careless or improper use is such that the ordinary layman should not by this method undertake to rid his house of any pest which may be annoying to him.

CARBICELLA AND FUSCO CITE REASONS FOR NEW TRIAL

MOTION FILED IN WELLSVILLE BRIBERY COUNT

Thirteen Grounds are Given in Defense Motion.

NO DATE SET

Alleged to Have Offered $390 to Sheriff.

Thirteen reasons for a new trial have been set up in a motion filed in common pleas court in the case of the state of Ohio against Rocco Carbicella and Frank Fusco, of Wellsville, convicted by a jury Thursday on a bribery count. Both men were charged with offering Sheriff George Wright $390 to "lay off" further investigations in the murder of James Kenney in Wellsville the morning of May 17, last.

When Judge W. H. Spence will hear argument on the motion has not been determined. The text of the motion follows:

"Now comes the defendants and moves the court to set aside the verdict rendered by the jury in this cause and grant a new trial to the defendants for the following reasons:

"The verdict is against the weight of the evidence.

"The indictment does not charge a crime under the laws of Ohio.

"The verdict is contrary to law.

"Errors of law occurring at the trial excepted to at the time by the defendants.

"Court erred in overruling the demurrer or objection of the defendants to the introduction of any evidence under said indictment for the reason that the same did not charge a crime under the laws of Ohio.

"Misconduct on the part of Prosecuting Attorney Robert Brookes, in the presence of the jury, wherein he stated, in substance, that he believed the defendants were connected with the murder of one James Kenney, which statement prejudiced the defendants from having a fair and impartial trial.

"Court erred in overruling the motion of the defendant, Frank Fusco, at the close of the state's testimony, to quash the indictment against the defendant and dismiss the case from the jury.

FIRE DESTROYS M'ARDLE HOME AT CITY LIMIT

Four-room, Single Story Frame Structure Razed.

APPEAL FOR AID

Loss Is Estimated at Approximately $2,500.

Fire, of undetermined origin, completely destroyed the four-room one-story frame residence owned by Mr. and Mrs. John McArdle, located over the bank from the Wellsville-Lisbon road, a few hundred feet north of the corporate limit, this morning at 9 o'clock.

The house was unoccupied when neighbors observed flames and smoke issuing from the windows.

McArdle, a laborer, was employed with the city's repair gang in cleaning out the McQueen's Run Hollow sewer in the west end of the city and his wife, who is employed in an East Liverpool pottery, had gone there to draw her wages.

The flames spread rapidly and despite a quick run, the local fire department was unable to extinguish the blaze although several nearby buildings, which were endangered for a time, were saved from destruction.

The McArdle home and all their possessions, with the exception of the clothing they wore this morning, went up in smoke at a loss estimated at approximately $2,500.

Residents of the neighborhood, cognizant of the family's straitened circumstances as a result of their loss, today appealed to the city for immediate contributions of clothing, bedding, food and other necessities sufficient to accommodate them until they are able to readjust themselves to conditions.

Temporarily they expect to live in a small building nearby the ruins of their home.

When Judge W. H. Spence will hear argument on the motion has not been determined. The text of the motion follows:

"Now comes the defendants and moves the court to set aside the verdict rendered by the jury in this cause and grant a new trial to the defendants for the following reasons:

"The verdict is against the weight of the evidence.

"The indictment does not charge a crime under the laws of Ohio.

"The verdict is contrary to law.

"Errors of law occurring at the trial excepted to at the time by the defendants.

"Court erred in overruling the demurrer or objection of the defendants to the introduction of any evidence under said indictment for the reason that the same did not charge a crime under the laws of Ohio.

"Misconduct on the part of Prosecuting Attorney Robert Brookes, in the presence of the jury, wherein he stated, in substance, that he believed the defendants were connected with the murder of one James Kenney, which statement prejudiced the defendants from having a fair and impartial trial.

"Court erred in overruling the motion of the defendant, Frank Fusco, at the close of the state's testimony, to quash the indictment against the defendant and dismiss the case from the jury.

"Court erred by relinquishing his control of the conduct of the trial while final arguments were being made to the jury, by absenting himself from said court room on three different occasions; one occasion being for more than a period of 10 minutes in another room, other than the court room in which the trial was held; court being recalled to determine a question of law or right of argument to the jury.

"Court erred in permitting evidence of the state over the objection of the defendants as shown by the record excepted to at the time.

"Court erred in refusing to permit the introduction of testimony offered by the defendants as shown by the record and objected to at the time.

"Misconduct on the part of the sheriff of Columbiana county who was the state's principal witness, in mingling and conversing with some of the jurors in front of the court house; just prior to the final argument of the counsel of the state.

"Court erred in his charge as to what constituted the law applicable to this case. There is apparent error in the court's charge."

FIRE DESTROYS M'ARDLE HOME AT CITY LIMIT

Four-room, Single Story Frame Structure Razed.

APPEAL FOR AID

Loss Is Estimated at Approximately $2,500.

Fire, of undetermined origin, completely destroyed the four-room one-story frame residence owned by Mr. and Mrs. John McArdle, located over the bank from the Wellsville-Lisbon road, a few hundred feet north of the corporate limit, this morning at 9 o'clock.

The house was unoccupied when neighbors observed flames and smoke issuing from the windows.

McArdle, a laborer, was employed with the city's repair gang in cleaning out the McQueen's Run Hollow sewer in the west end of the city and his wife, who is employed in an East Liverpool pottery, had gone there to draw her wages.

The flames spread rapidly and despite a quick run, the local fire department was unable to extinguish the blaze although several nearby buildings, which were endangered for a time, were saved from destruction.

The McArdle home and all their possessions, with the exception of the clothing they wore this morning, went up in smoke at a loss estimated at approximately $2,500.

Residents of the neighborhood, cognizant of the family's straitened circumstances as a result of their loss, today appealed to the city for immediate contributions of clothing, bedding, food and other necessities sufficient to accommodate them until they are able to readjust themselves to conditions.

Temporarily they expect to live in a small building nearby the ruins of their home.

tinct reason why the proposed 2.3 mill levy should be approved at the coming election.

For more than a decade, the schools of our city have carried a heavy debt, a debt which was created by the compulsory erection of certain buildings. Finally the bonded indebtedness became so large that when the annual premium and interest of the loans were paid, there was not sufficient of the money left to run the schools. For several years the school board provided for the annual deficit by making a loan; but that expedient can no longer be used, for the schools have reached the limit of their borrowing power. Since January, 1926, they have been permitted to borrow no more money.

In 1927 the school board must pay $30,984 of interest beside $53,000 principal. When this is paid, if the levy does not pass, and not being able to borrow more money, they will not have sufficient funds to carry on the entire next school year. Thus only about five months of school will be held.

Approval of the levy means that this indebtedness could be paid by and would not have to be taken from funds which should be used for carrying on the schools. If this tax does not pass, it means that those in school next year may be compelled to take two years to complete one year, and if the school is closed before the year's work is completed, those in the 1927 senior class will not graduate next year and in the case of a large number, to not graduate at all. Before the next year they will have found some place in the work of the world and school days will have ended. Some are in school today, who are kept there by the sacrifices of parents and in many cases by the hard efforts of the students themselves. The community should see that these parents, and students are not disappointed in their laudable efforts to give their children, and in the case of the students, to gain for themselves, the advantages of an education.

This 2.3 mill levy will be used to pay off debts and not to increase the salaries of the teachers, although they without doubt deserve more than they are receiving. Perhaps you may say "We have excellent and capable teachers in our schools at the present time.' Yes, we do, but did you ever stop to think why we have those teachers with the salaries we pay? The best of them could at any time go to more remunerative positions in other cities, and are here only because of the ties of home. That condition will not always exist.

If this millage does not pass, no teacher will be given a contract for more than six months. What teacher wishes to sign a contract for six months? None.

Our schools will be lowered in standard and our high school, which has held a first class standard since 1903, will be lowered to a second or third class.

Let us take an interest in the intellectual standard of our community and remembering all these facts, boost the 2.3 mill school levy and vote for it on Tuesday, November 2.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—A downward movement in industrial stock prices at the beginning of trading today resulted from the fairly heavy influx of selling orders since the close of Friday's irregular session, combined with the usual short selling of the professionals. After these orders had been absorbed the market firmed up with U. S. Steel common nad General Motors leading a modest rally.

The testimony of the week-end economic and business surveys of Dun's, Bradstreet's and leading Wall Street bankers was all in favor of constructive developments in business over the year-end. Recessions in important lines were admitted, but these were not expected to reach the proportions forecasted by socalled economic agencies. Better results are anticipated from the retail trade.

After an early decline to 135½, U. S. Steel common climbed aggressively to 138¼. Judge Gary's spech has put at rest all fears of destructive competition for American steel business with the European manufacturers, and inspired confidence in investors with respect to American steel stocks.

BEAUTY QUEST CAUSED DEATH OF HARRY GREB

Sanitarium Head Puts Blame on Plastic Surgery.

SKULL WEAKENED

Former Chester, W. Va., Girl at Fighter's Bedside.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 23.—Harry Greb's death was indirectly traceable to his efforts to have his features improved by plastic surgery, according to a statement issued today by Dr. Borenda Weinberg, head of the private sanitarium at which the fighter succumbed yesterday. The physician declared that Greb's nose and skull had been weakened by numerous "beauty" operations and that this probably caused a cerebral hemorrhage when he attempted to remove a small bone that had been pressing on the fighter's brain, following a broken nose sustained in an auto accident several weeks ago.

Dr. Weinberg added that the operation was a "kill or cure" proposition, as he considered that Greb couldn't have lived six months without it. The sanitarium also performed the operations in plastic surgery, which included the removal of an obstruction in the nasal passages and the eradication of a scar on the forehead.

Fiancee at Bedside.

Miss Naomi Braden, former Chester girl, fiancee of Harry Greb, Pittsburgh, former middleweight ring champion, was at the bedside of the boxer when he died at a private sanitarium in Atlantic City, yesterday afternoon.

Miss Braden's parents resided in the vicinity of Hookstown, Pa., but she lived in Chester for several years before going to Pittsburgh about three years ago. She was employed formerly as a clerk in the C. T. McCutcheon drug store, Fifth street, Chester. She is a sister of Mrs. J. V. Swearingen, Indiana avenue, Chester.

He was born in Center township, and was a member of the West Beaver United Presbyterian church. He is survived by his widow and two sons, John, of West Point, and Howard H., of Lisbon, and two daughters, Mrs. Fred Burson, Lisbon, and Olive M. Koffel, at home. Five grandchildren and one sister, Mrs. Anna Todd, of near the West Beaver church also survive.

Funeral services will be conducted in the West Beaver church at 10:30 o'clock Monday morning in charge of Rev. Mr. Fraser. Burial will be made in the Lisbon cemetery.

ALMY FUNERAL AT 2 P. M. SUNDAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Catherine J. Almy, widow of Sanford Almy, who died yesterday, will be held in the home of her daughter, Mrs. T. C. Dawson, 318 Thompson avenue, at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, in charge of Rev. Frank G. Fowler, D. D., of the First Methodist Episcopal church, who will be assisted by Rev. George C. Westlake, of the Pennsylvania avenue church. Burial will be made in the New Salem, Pa., cemetery.

Friends may view the body from 7 to 10 o'clock tonight.

Motorist is Fined $25 After Staging Cinema-like Stunt

George Brown, who, according to police, resides in East End, was fined $25 and costs by Municipal Judge Hanley today after he was found guilty upon a charge of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated.

Brown, police say, drove across the street car trestle which spans Beaver creek, just west of Smith's Ferry, while on his way home at 6:45 o'clock last evening. Captain Conley intercepted him when he reached Virginia avenue a few minutes later.

The fine was paid.

then thought I might have made a mistake."

"Don't Papa," Screams One Child.

The family, which is motherless, occupied the top of a two and a half story house. Marion and Edna slept together in one room, while Florence and Mildred slept in another.

Marion awakened suddenly this morning and saw her father standing in the bedroom, muttering. In one hand he held a lighted lamp, in the other the ax. Even as Marion's startled eyes took in the situation, the crazed man swung the ax high and brought it down on Edna's head.

"Don't papa, don't," Marion screamed as she leaped from the bed.

In a frenzy, the father turned on her and swung. Marion skipped and dodged. A second swing, and the blunt side of the ax struck her on the side and sent her flying from the bedroom. The child kept her feet and fled from the house.

Find Man With Ax in Hand.

At Court and Maine streets she met Howard Gurney, of No. 85 Walnut street, who ran with her to the police station.

Meantime Stoddard had gone into the other bedroom and with two strokes of the ax had disposed of his other two daughters. Mildred, her head almost severed, was killed instantly. In her arms she clasped in death her treasured doll.

Police arriving on the run, found the neighborhood in confusion, having been awakened by Marion's screams. The officers went to the Stoddard apartment. In the kitchen they found Stoddard, standing apparently in a daze, the bloody ax still in his hand. He submitted to arrest quietly and was handcuffed.

City physician A. F. Peterson, believed he detected signs of life in Florence and Edna, ordered them taken to Brooklyn City hospital. Florence was dead on arrival, and Edna died a few minutes later.

Lost Job After Drinking Spell.

The police said that Stoddard, about two weeks ago, started a drinking spree and lost his job. He stopped drinking on Monday, the police alleged.

CITY AWARDS ST. CLAIR JOB

George B. Patterson, Wellsville, Given Amiesite Contract.

Contract for the resurfacing of St. Clair avenue from Youngs alley to the north line of the J. T. Croxall property was awarded by the board of control today to George B. Patterson, of Wellsville. The street will be surfaced with amiesite, which according to the contractor, is a patented asphaltic material.

Patterson's bid was the only one submitted by contractors a week ago which was within the engineer's estimate. Patterson's offer was $8,280.17 as compared to the engineer's estimate of $9,174.99. The Ohio Willite Paving and Surfacing company, of East Liverpool asked $9,262.97 for asphaltic concrete and $9,624.27 for sheet asphalt.

The contract was not awarded, according to Mayor Benedum and Service-Safety Director Moore, comprising the board of control, until a thorough investigation was made as to the merits of amiesite. The mayor, director, City Engineer Clapsaddle, City Auditor McGraw and Water Works Clerk Frank Robinson, yesterday visited in Niles where they inspected several streets which had been improved with amiesite. These streets, the visitors were told by the Niles mayor, were constructed two years ago and show no signs of wear or cracking. Some of these streets are resurfacing jobs while others are new in construction, city officials said.

Patterson is now grading and surfacing Avondale street. He was given the Fourth street surfacing job but work on the contract has been held up by a court injuction granted Frank Swaney of the Ohio Willite Paving and Surfacing company, one of the unsuccessful bidders.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—A downward movement in industrial stock prices at the beginning of trading today resulted from the fairly heavy influx of selling orders since the close of Friday's irregular session, combined with the usual short selling of the professionals. After these orders had been absorbed the market firmed up with U. S. Steel common nad General Motors leading a modest rally.

The testimony of the week-end economic and business surveys of Dun's, Bradstreet's and leading Wall Street bankers was all in favor of constructive developments in business over the year-end. Recessions in important lines were admitted, but these were not expected to reach the proportions forecasted by socalled economic agencies. Better results are anticipated from the retail trade.

After an early decline to 135½, U. S. Steel common climbed aggressively to 138¼. Judge Gary's spech has put at rest all fears of destructive competition for American steel business with the European manufacturers, and inspired confidence in investors with respect to American steel stocks.

BEAUTY QUEST CAUSED DEATH OF HARRY GREB

Sanitarium Head Puts Blame on Plastic Surgery.

SKULL WEAKENED

Former Chester, W. Va., Girl at Fighter's Bedside.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 23.—Harry Greb's death was indirectly traceable to his efforts to have his features improved by plastic surgery, according to a statement issued today by Dr. Borenda Weinberg, head of the private sanitarium at which the fighter succumbed yesterday. The physician declared that Greb's nose and skull had been weakened by numerous "beauty" operations and that this probably caused a cerebral hemorrhage when he attempted to remove a small bone that had been pressing on the fighter's brain, following a broken nose sustained in an auto accident several weeks ago.

Dr. Weinberg added that the operation was a "kill or cure" proposition, as he considered that Greb couldn't have lived six months without it. The sanitarium also performed the operations in plastic surgery, which included the removal of an obstruction in the nasal passages and the eradication of a scar on the forehead.

Fiancee at Bedside.

Miss Naomi Braden, former Chester girl, fiancee of Harry Greb, Pittsburgh, former middleweight ring champion, was at the bedside of the boxer when he died at a private sanitarium in Atlantic City, yesterday afternoon.

Miss Braden's parents resided in the vicinity of Hookstown, Pa., but she lived in Chester for several years before going to Pittsburgh about three years ago. She was employed formerly as a clerk in the C. T. McCutcheon drug store, Fifth street, Chester. She is a sister of Mrs. J. V. Swearingen, Indiana avenue, Chester.

Motorist is Fined $25 After Staging Cinema-like Stunt

George Brown, who, according to police, resides in East End, was fined $25 and costs by Municipal Judge Hanley today after he was found guilty upon a charge of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated.

Brown, police say, drove across the street car trestle which spans Beaver creek, just west of Smith's Ferry, while on his way home at 6:45 o'clock last evening. Captain Conley intercepted him when he reached Virginia avenue a few minutes later.

The fine was paid.

then thought I might have made a mistake."

"Don't Papa," Screams One Child.

The family, which is motherless, occupied the top of a two and a half story house. Marion and Edna slept together in one room, while Florence and Mildred slept in another.

Marion awakened suddenly this morning and saw her father standing in the bedroom, muttering. In one hand he held a lighted lamp, in the other the ax. Even as Marion's startled eyes took in the situation, the crazed man swung the ax high and brought it down on Edna's head.

"Don't papa, don't," Marion screamed as she leaped from the bed.

In a frenzy, the father turned on her and swung. Marion skipped and dodged. A second swing, and the blunt side of the ax struck her on the side and sent her flying from the bedroom. The child kept her feet and fled from the house.

Find Man With Ax in Hand.

At Court and Maine streets she met Howard Gurney, of No. 85 Walnut street, who ran with her to the police station.

Meantime Stoddard had gone into the other bedroom and with two strokes of the ax had disposed of his other two daughters. Mildred, her head almost severed, was killed instantly. In her arms she clasped in death her treasured doll.

Police arriving on the run, found the neighborhood in confusion, having been awakened by Marion's screams. The officers went to the Stoddard apartment. In the kitchen they found Stoddard, standing apparently in a daze, the bloody ax still in his hand. He submitted to arrest quietly and was handcuffed.

City physician A. F. Peterson, believed he detected signs of life in Florence and Edna, ordered them taken to Brooklyn City hospital. Florence was dead on arrival, and Edna died a few minutes later.

Lost Job After Drinking Spell.

The police said that Stoddard, about two weeks ago, started a drinking spree and lost his job. He stopped drinking on Monday, the police alleged.

CITY AWARDS ST. CLAIR JOB

George B. Patterson, Wellsville, Given Amiesite Contract.

Contract for the resurfacing of St. Clair avenue from Youngs alley to the north line of the J. T. Croxall property was awarded by the board of control today to George B. Patterson, of Wellsville. The street will be surfaced with amiesite, which according to the contractor, is a patented asphaltic material.

Patterson's bid was the only one submitted by contractors a week ago which was within the engineer's estimate. Patterson's offer was $8,280.17 as compared to the engineer's estimate of $9,174.99. The Ohio Willite Paving and Surfacing company, of East Liverpool asked $9,262.97 for asphaltic concrete and $9,624.27 for sheet asphalt.

The contract was not awarded, according to Mayor Benedum and Service-Safety Director Moore, comprising the board of control, until a thorough investigation was made as to the merits of amiesite. The mayor, director, City Engineer Clapsaddle, City Auditor McGraw and Water Works Clerk Frank Robinson, yesterday visited in Niles where they inspected several streets which had been improved with amiesite. These streets, the visitors were told by the Niles mayor, were constructed two years ago and show no signs of wear or cracking. Some of these streets are resurfacing jobs while others are new in construction, city officials said.

Patterson is now grading and surfacing Avondale street. He was given the Fourth street surfacing job but work on the contract has been held up by a court injuction granted Frank Swaney of the Ohio Willite Paving and Surfacing company, one of the unsuccessful bidders.

If the town has a lot of empty houses, vacant store buildings and idle factories, there can be no substantial value to property. Therefore, to keep the stores rented, the dwellings occupied and a general good tone to property values, it is necessary that you give your home people your entire support. Patronizing out of town stores is not altogether limited to poor people or to people who do not know the hurt they are doing the home town, but often we find some well known and well-to-do person receiving goods from out of town stores. This is more through thoughtlessness and of being mislead by embellished and highly exaggerated descriptions of goods in newspapers which, in the big majority of cases, are great disappointments when received. Trade at Home—Always. Help build up the Home Town and the beautiful countryside. Remember, we are all interdependent and it behooves everyone of us to be loyal and do our bit.

It's as plain as a pikestaff that the dollar you take out of town seldom comes back. If you spend your dollar in town it stays here. It circulates in the community. It is a living thing. The dollar goes to the butcher, the baker. It goes to the printer. The local merchant with whom you spend it pays it out in wages. It makes for the individual well being. It makes for the community well being.

Therefore circulate your dollars in town. Be a community builder. It might be well to emphasize the fact that you cannot do any better out of town than you can right here with our local merchants.

With that fact confronting you, why hesitate about spending your dollars with the home merchants? The local merchants are progressive and a part of the community in which you live and in which you are vitally interested. They'll give you value received for every dollar you spend.

The question of alimony and the support of the child has been settled by agreement between the parties, and the agreement has been made a part of the decree. The couple had been married nearly 19 years when the decree of divorce was handed down.

Clarke Can Have Pirate Job If He Wants It, Asserts Walsh

Doubtful, However, If McKechnie's Aid Will Accept Place

Bancroft Decides to Stick to Braves; Fletcher Not Likely to Land Job, Says Critic; Possible Former Phil Pilot Will Connect With St. Louis Browns; Robbie Back as Bench Boss.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—With managerial heads bounding merrily off the guillotine in a really disorderly manner, it is a pleasure to relate that the directors of the Brooklyn Dodgers will hold their annual meeting today and that Wilbert Robinson, fat without being at all fatuous, will be retained as manager of the ball club. There had been some talk of Wilbert taking the air, which is the only thing that comes gratis around Ebbets field, but apparently the boys thought better of the idea.

My information is that Robbie will be returned to his old job as plain and unvarnished bench manager and that Larry Sutton, the scout, will be elevated to the presidency. So much for that.

Simultaneously, comes the information that Dave Bancroft has decided to stick with the Boston Braves, leaving the field in Pittsburgh open to Fred Clarke, Arthur Fletcher and the rest of the pack. Judge Emil Fuchs probably had decided that one long ago, Banny being his property and none others.

However, it is interesting to hear that Bancroft has abandoned the Pittsburgh idea, because it never was a very good one, anyhow. The field is open there only as long as Clark decides to leave it so. Fred could have had the job at any time during the last dozen years and he can have it now if he wants it, which I am pleased to doubt.

It may be, however, that Clarke's hand has been forced by the wholesale release of Max Carey, Bill McKechnie, Stuffy McInnis and gents with kindred ambitions and that he will listen to the slick, city words of Dreyfuss or that already he has done so.

Anyhow, the chances of Arthur Fletcher taking over the assignment are not esteemed so highly by those who know their eggplants. John A. Heydler is perfectly devoted to his umpires and Arthur loves them dearly, too. The only trouble is that he loves them most on the other end of a right cross and Mr. Heydler regards this purely emotional expression as one that shouldn't be encouraged.

They say that Fletcher, once out of the National league, will find it extremely difficult to return. This, to my way of thinking, would be a loss mutually felt by Fletcher and the National league.

Lee Fohl's departure from Boston might bring Fletcher into the American league in charge of the Red Sox. This probably would be all right with Arthur, who has spent the last few seasons with the Phillies, has corns on his shoulder blades and is impervious to suffering. It also is regarded as a possibility that he will land the St. Louis Browns.

As for Fohl's visit with Dreyfuss, the most logical interpretation if any, is that Lee might become coach of the Pirate pitchers, both of them. That kind of thing is right down Lee's alley while the managerial business seems to be right down his windpipe.

Toronto Tigers Pick Tough Opponent in Opening Grid Clash

Tackling the combined Cleveland Indians Favorite Knits tomorrow afternoon at Kilgus Field, the recently reorganized Toronto Tigers will go into the "crucial" game class right off the reel instead of waiting until mid-schedule for the Fifth City outfit boasts strength enough to give the Tigers more than a battle, despite the strong array of talent lined up by the Jefferson countians.

"Red" Anderson, "Buck" Gerace and Earl "Goose" Munday will wear the Toronto uniform in the Sunday engagement.

The visiting squad will have such performers as Michaels, of Iowa; Bozeman, Texas Aggies; Crawford, Michigan; A. Paney, of California; J. Panek, Ohio State; Mann, Heidelberg; Medsker, Case; Garber, Western Reserve; Campbell, Knox college; Potter, W. & J.; Pignatove, West Virginia; Garney, Wilberforce; Duge, Georgia Tech; Yanda, Ohio State; Horne, Duquesne; and Hanley, South High.

The game will start at 2:30.

ITALIAN HEAVY IS ELIMINATED

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—One potential heavyweight champion has joined the dodo bird and the great auk today and another has failed to improve his standing as a result of the second session of Tex Rickard's elimination tournament held at Madison Square Garden last night.

Arthur Dekuh, giant Italian, passed over the horizon when Jimmy Maloney, the plump Boston Irishman, flattened him in two rounds after flooring him eight times and Monte Munn of Nebraska failed to add to his reputation when he was awarded the decision over Cal Carter, at the end of seven poor rounds. Carter was disqualified because he wouldn't fight. Munn was willing to battle but Carter was not.

Dekuh failed to show anything but a long chin that seemed to gravitate into the orbit of Maloney's wild swings while Munn, although winning with ease, appeared to lack his usual aggressiveness and the willingness to take chances. Carter, however, refused to fight or even entertain any ideas along that line.

Harry Greb, Former Middle Champ, Dies In Atlantic City

HARRY GREB

Harry Greb, of Pittsburgh, former middleweight champion of the world, died yesterday in an Atlantic City sanitarium following an operation on his nose. He never recovered from the anaesthetic.

The operation on the boxer's nose was resorted to in an attempt to relieve pressure at the floor of the skull caused by the fracture of a bone in the nose in a recent automobile accident.

Fight Results

AT NEW YORK—Jim Maloney, of Boston, won technical knockout over Arthur De Kuh, of Brooklyn, in the second round.

Monte Munn, of Nebraska, won decision over Carl Carter, of New York, when Carter was disqualified in seventh round for holding.

Jack De Mave, of Hoboken, N. J., drew with Sandy Seifert, of Pittsburgh, 10 rounds.

Yale Okun, of New York, won decision from Bob Lawson, of Alabama, 10 rounds.

AT CAMDEN, N. J.—Roxie Allen, of Camden, won decision over Ruby Stein, of New York, 10 rounds.

Lou Guglielmi, of New York, won decision over Johnnie Shearan, of Philadelphia, six rounds.

AT CHICAGO — Jackie Snyder, featherweight, of New York, won from Ray Miller, of Chicago, second round, on foul.

Al Van Ryan, middleweight, of St. Paul, beat Jimmy Finley, of Louisville, 10 rounds.

Paul Allen, featherweight, of Chicago, drew with Henry Usse, New York, eight rounds.

Harry Forbes, bantam, of Columbus, O., decisioned Joe Ryde, of Brooklyn, eight rounds.

Ernie Peters, flyweight, of Chicago, beat "Irish" Mickey Gill, of Dublin, Ireland, eight rounds.

State Authorities To Close Up Guilford Park Property Deals

Representatives of the office of Attorney General C. C. Crabbe, Columbus, arrived in Lisbon yesterday for the purpose of closing all details having to do with the property which will be included in the proposed Guilford Lake park in Hanover township.

Numerous delays have taken place at Columbus recently in connection with the purchase by the state of the land which will be taken over for the new park. Abstracts for the property were delivered at Columbus about two months ago.

E. H. Campbell, Salem, who has been vitally interested in the proposed park ever since the Columbiana County Fish and Game Protective association launched a move for a state fish hatchery, has announced that the deal for the property will be closed within 30 days. Work on the construction of the dam will be started early next spring.

County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk has already filed with the department of public works at Columbus plans for the dam and other proposed improvements.

Toledo Beaten Again.

TOLEDO, Oct. 23.—Toledo university's football team today is preparing for a campaign of training to stop its string of defeats. The eleven yesterday was defeated by the fast Bluffton college squad, 13 to 7. It was the third successive defeat for the local team.

DARTMOUTH 2-1 FAVORITE OVER HARVARD SQUAD

Yale Not Excited Over Possibilities of Brown Game.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—The Dartmouth-Harvard, Navy-Colgate and Yale-Brown games head today's football menu in the east, while metropolitan fans has a surfeit of gridiron dishes served for them with the Fordham-Washington and Jefferson, Columbia-Duke and Rutger-New York University contests all being played in this city.

Encouraged by Dartmouth's defeat at the hands of Yale and by the marked improvement of their own eleven, Harvard was ready to prove that the betting odds of 2 to 1 in Dartmouth's favor were all wrong. Yale was not unduly excited over the Brown game, but a close contest was expected between Navy and Colgate.

Penn faces a fairly easy contest with Williams while a green Penn State team was favored to defeat Syracuse's crippled eleven, which only a week ago was hailed as a potential championship aggregation. Princeton, smarting under her defeat by the Navy, was determined to roll up a big score against Lehigh.

Army anticipated an easy victory over Boston University. The West Virginia-West Virginia Wesleyan game marked a clash between bitter rivals and Western Maryland was hopeful of snapping the winning streak of Holy Cross.

CHICAGO CHARITY FIGHT FAILURE

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—The Bennett boxing show staged by the state athletic commission for the relief of Illinois flood sufferers, was a disappointment, O. W. Huncke, of the commission, announced today.

Only 2,041 fans attended. The gate amounted to $5,438.

Jackie Snyder, of New York, and Ray Miller, of Chicago, fought the main event. Snyder was awarded the decision in the second round on a foul. Miller hit him low and the New Yorker sank to the floor in agony. Dr. J. P. O'Connell examined Snyder and said he was unable to continue.

Al Van Ryan, of St. Paul, won a decision over Jimmy Finley, of Louisville, in the ten round semi-final. Ernie Peters, of Chicago, won an eight-round decision over "Irish" Mickey Gill, of Dublin, Ireland, and Henry Usse, of New York, and Paul Allen, of Chicago, went eight rounds to a draw.

Harry Forbes, Columbus, O., bantam scored the cleaner punches and was awarded the verdict over Joe Ryder, of Brooklyn, in an eight round preliminary. It was one of the most interesting bouts on the card.

PENN STATE SET FOR "COME BACK"

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Oct. 23.—Penn State was primed for a come back this afternoon at the expense of Syracuse, the local eleven having rallied nicely from its overwhelming defeat by Notre Dame last Saturday. The Orange was forced to enter the game in a crippled condition, owing to the loss of Carr, star back and the resignation from the squad of Baysinger, first string quarterback.

So hard pressed for backfield men was Pete Reynolds that he announced he would have Captain Vic Hanson call the signals from his position at end.

50,000 To Take In Ohio State--Iowa Tilt At Columbus

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 23.—With fair weather forecast and conditions satisfactory under foot, a thrilling gridiron contest is anticipated here this afternoon when Ohio State University's eleven meets the Iowa team at Ohio stadium. The game will start at 2 p. m., Eastern Standard time.

The event will mark the Scarlet and Gray's initial game of the Western Conference season. It will be the second conference game for the Hawkeyes. Both teams, it is reported, are in fine condition. Indications are that approximately 50,000 persons will witness the game.

Elmer Marek, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, flash, is scheduled to go in at left half for Ohio State when the game opens. Kruskamp will start the game at right half. Freddie Grim, who played a star game against Columbia last Saturday, and Byron Eby, are expected to alternate with Marek and Kruskamp during the game.

Urbana Bemoans Fluke.

URBANA, O., Oct. 23.—Local football enthusiasts continued today to bemoan the fluke which allowed the Sidney team a victory over the locals, 6 to 0. In the first quarter Sidney blocked a punt, the ball rolling to within a yard of the goal posts. Sidney then pushed it over for the lone touchdown.

CRUCIAL GAMES AS BIG 10 HITS HALF WAY POST

Michigan-Illinois and State-Iowa Tilts Features.

By George A. Strickler.

CHICAGO, Oct. 23. — "Crucial games," a phase as old as football's best known jibe, "Stagg fears Purdue," is revived again as teams in the Western Conference slide by the halfway post in their schedules today, mixing in some of the outstanding contests of the day.

The Big Ten title will be unofficially bestowed upon the winner of the Michigan-Illinois game at Ann Arbor, while Ohio State, matched with Iowa at Columbus, engages in its first conference game of the season and Chicago experiences a similar thrill against Purdue.

The first two shape up as battles for kings, promising to be replete with the sensational. At Ann Arbor the multitudes anticipate much over head play, a couple of field goals, and a Wolverine victory.

Brilliant runs, or their near kind, will be the entertainment expected from Karow and Marek, Ohio stars, and Kutsch, the Iowa cowboy. Ohio will start a varsity team including six sophomores in their first conference game, but is the favorite nevertheless.

The nomads of Notre Dame will headline in Chicago, meeting the wildest of Glen Thistlethwaites' Northwestern Wildcats before a dignified gathering of some 40,000 persons, including Vice President Charles Dawes.

For two years the Wildcats have pushed Notre Dame to the limit, and although confident of victory, Rockne has marched 79 of his 99 performers into Evanston. That probably explains his confidence. Flashy sprints and startling spirals undoubtedly will also feature this game.

Wisconsin meets Indiana at Madison in what will probably be whatever the Badgers care to make it. On the midway at Chicago Purdue is doped to win its first game in years from Choirmaster Stagg and the Maroon Glee club. The Chicago-Purdue game looms as the greater football game of the two—whatever that means.

Minnesota and Wabash will do four quarters for the benefit of the Gophers in their argument with Wisconsin at Madison next week, the Little Giants threatening the conference entrant with everything but defeat.

INSIDE Ggolf

By CHESTER HORTON.

Maker of 81 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

One of the most valuable shots in golf and the one the good golfer is always master of, is the short pitch or run-up to the pin. And the thing that ruins this seemingly simple shot most often is the unconscious habit of looking up. The golfer will do well always to remind himself of the danger of looking up on these shots. Better still is to give yourself a habit that will prevent it largely, and the best of habits in this respect is to turn the head to the right while making this shot. Thus you look at the ball apparently with the left eye only and you will observe that the clearness with which you see it makes it look like a croquet ball. With the head thus turned you pretty nearly see the clubhead go through, as you should. This practice will save you many a dubbed run-up and also will enable you now and then to get down with one putt.

Wellsville-Salem Clash Heads List; Locals At Toronto

Columbiana county scholastic football interest this afternoon is centered chiefly on the Salem-Wellsville battle at Hammond park, Wellsville, in a clash that will provide the first real test of the campaign for the Orange and Black.

East Liverpool's Blue and White will sojourn for the day in Toronto and are anticipating anything but an easy contest, with Bromby and McConville, backfield stars, and Captain Dick Larkins, center, out of the lineup.

Leetonia, recovering from the effects of a 28 to 0 drubbing administered last Saturday at Wellsville, will be idle.

Lisbon is slated for an engagement at East Palestine and advance dope places the East Palestine eleven in the position of favorites.

Ray Wilde's Chester eleven, improving as the season goes along, also will draw no small amount of interest in its clash with Wellsburg at Chester.

Clarke Can Have Pirate Job If He Wants It, Asserts Walsh

Doubtful, However, If McKechnie's Aid Will Accept Place

Bancroft Decides to Stick to Braves; Fletcher Not Likely to Land Job, Says Critic; Possible Former Phil Pilot Will Connect With St. Louis Browns; Robbie Back as Bench Boss.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—With managerial heads bounding merrily off the guillotine in a really disorderly manner, it is a pleasure to relate that the directors of the Brooklyn Dodgers will hold their annual meeting today and that Wilbert Robinson, fat without being at all fatuous, will be retained as manager of the ball club. There had been some talk of Wilbert taking the air, which is the only thing that comes gratis around Ebbets field, but apparently the boys thought better of the idea.

My information is that Robbie will be returned to his old job as plain and unvarnished bench manager and that Larry Sutton, the scout, will be elevated to the presidency. So much for that.

Simultaneously, comes the information that Dave Bancroft has decided to stick with the Boston Braves, leaving the field in Pittsburgh open to Fred Clarke, Arthur Fletcher and the rest of the pack. Judge Emil Fuchs probably had decided that one long ago. Banny being his property and none others.

However, it is interesting to hear that Bancroft has abandoned the Pittsburgh idea, because it never was a very good one, anyhow. The field is open there only as long as Clark decides to leave it so. Fred could have had the job at any time during the last dozen years and he can have it now if he wants it, which I am pleased to doubt.

It may be, however, that Clarke's hand has been forced by the wholesale release of Max Carey, Bill McKechnie, Stuffy McInnis and gents with kindred ambitions and that he will listen to the slick, city words of Dreyfuss or that already he has done so.

Anyhow, the chances of Arthur Fletcher taking over the assignment are not esteemed so highly by those who know their eggplants. John A. Heydler is perfectly devoted to his umpires and Arthur loves them dearly, too. The only trouble is that he loves them most on the other end of a right cross and Mr. Heydler regards this purely emotional expression as one that shouldn't be encouraged.

They say that Fletcher, once out of the National league, will find it extremely difficult to return. This, to my way of thinking, would be a loss mutually felt by Fletcher and the National league.

Lee Fohl's departure from Boston might bring Fletcher into the American league in charge of the Red Sox. This probably would be all right with Arthur, who has spent the last few seasons with the Phillies, has corns on his shoulder blades and is impervious to suffering. It also is regarded as a possibility that he will land the St. Louis Browns.

As for Fohl's visit with Dreyfuss, the most logical interpretation if any, is that Lee might become coach of the Pirate pitchers, both of them. That kind of thing is right down Lee's alley while the managerial business seems to be right down his windpipe.

Toronto Tigers Pick Tough Opponent in Opening Grid Clash

Tackling the combined Cleveland Indians Favorite Knits tomorrow afternoon at Kilgus Field, the recently reorganized Toronto Tigers will go into the "crucial" game class right off the reel instead of waiting until midschedule for the Fifth City outfit boasts strength enough to give the Tigers more than a battle, despite the strong array of talent lined up by the Jefferson countians.

"Red" Anderson, "Buck" Gerace and Earl "Goose' Munday will wear the Toronto uniform in the Sunday engagement.

The visiting squad will have such performers as Michaels, of Iowa; Bogeman, Texas Aggies; Crawford, Michigan; A. Paney, of California; J. CHICAGO CHARITY FIGHT FAILURE

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—The Bennett boxing show staged by the state athletic commission for the relief of Illinois flood sufferers, was a disappointment, O. W. Huncke, of the commission, announced today.

Only 2,041 fans attended. The gate amounted to $5,438.

Jackie Snyder, of New York, and Ray Miller, of Chicago, fought the main event. Snyder was awarded the decision in the second round on a foul. Miller hit him low and the New Yorker sank to the floor in agony. Dr. J. P. O'Connell examined Snyder and said he was unable to continue.

Al Van Ryan, of St. Paul, won a decision over Jimmy Finley, of Louisville, in the ten round semi-final. Ernie Peters, of Chicago, won an eight-round decision over "Irish" Mickey Gill, of Dublin, Ireland, and Henry Usse, of New York, and Paul Allen, of Chicago, went eight rounds to a draw.

Harry Forbes, Columbus, O., bantam scored the cleaner punches and was awarded the verdict over Joe Ryder, of Brooklyn, in an eight round preliminary. It was one of the most interesting bouts on the card.

PENN STATE SET FOR "COME BACK"

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Oct. 23.—Penn State was primed for a come back this afternoon at the expense of Syracuse, the local eleven having rallied nicely from its overwhelming defeat by Notre Dame last Saturday. The Orange was forced to enter the game in a crippled condition, owing to the loss of Carr, star back and the resignation from the squad of Baysinger, first string quarterback.

So hard pressed for backfield men was Pete Reynolds that he announced he would have Captain Vic Hanson call the signals from his position at end.

50,000 To Take In Ohio State--Iowa Tilt At Columbus

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 23.—With fair weather forecast and conditions satisfactory under foot, a thrilling gridiron contest is anticipated here this afternoon when Ohio State University's eleven meets the Iowa team at Ohio stadium. The game will start at 2 p. m., Eastern Standard time.

The event will mark the Scarlet and Gray's initial game of the Western Conference season. It will be the second conference game for the Hawkeyes. Both teams, it is reported, are in fine condition. Indications are that approximately 50,000 persons will witness the game.

Elmer Marek, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, flash, is scheduled to go in at left half for Ohio State when the game opens. Kruskamp will start the game at right half. Freddie Grim, who played a star game against Columbia last Saturday, and Byron Eby, are expected to alternate with Marek and Kruskamp during the game.

Urbana Bemoans Fluke.

URBANA, O., Oct. 23.—Local football enthusiasts continued today to bemoan the fluke which allowed the Sidney team a victory over the locals, 6 to 0. In the first quarter Sidney blocked a punt, the ball rolling to within a yard of the goal posts. Sidney then pushed it over for the lone touchdown.

CRUCIAL GAMES AS BIG 10 HITS HALF WAY POST

Michigan-Illinois and State-Iowa Tilts Features.

By George A. Strickler.

CHICAGO, Oct. 23. — "Crucial games," a phase as old as football's best known jibe, "Stagg fears Purdue," is revived again as teams in the Western Conference slide by the halfway post in their schedules today, mixing in some of the outstanding contests of the day.

The Big Ten title will be unofficially bestowed upon the winner of the Michigan-Illinois game at Ann Arbor, while Ohio State, matched with Iowa at Columbus, engages in its first conference game of the season and Chicago experiences a similar thrill against Purdue.

The first two shape up as battles for kings, promising to be replete with the sensational. At Ann Arbor the multitudes anticipate much over head play, a couple of field goals, and a Wolverine victory.

Brilliant runs, or their near kind, will be the entertainment expected from Karow and Marek, Ohio stars, and Kutsch, the Iowa cowboy. Ohio will start a varsity team including six sophomores in their first conference game, but is the favorite nevertheless.

The nomads of Notre Dame will headline in Chicago, meeting the wildest of Glen Thistlethwaites' Northwestern Wildcats before a dignified gathering of some 40,000 persons, including Vice President Charles Dawes.

For two years the Wildcats have pushed Notre Dame to the limit, and although confident of victory, Rockne has marched 79 of his 99 performers into Evanston. That probably explains his confidence. Flashy sprints and startling spirals undoubtedly will also feature this game.

Wisconsin meets Indiana at Madison in what will probably be whatever the Badgers care to make it. On the midway at Chicago Purdue is doped to win its first game in years from Choirmaster Stagg and the Maroon Glee club. The Chicago-Purdue game looms as the greater football game of the two—whatever that means.

Minnesota and Wabash will do four quarters for the benefit of the Gophers in their argument with Wisconsin at Madison next week, the Little Giants threatening the conference entrant with everything but defeat.

It is a human peculiarity, both feminine and masculine, to suffer more from the heat after looking at the thermometer than before looking at it.—Zanesville Signal.

INSIDE Ggolf

By CHESTER HORTON.

Maker of 81 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

One of the most valuable shots in golf and the one the good golfer is always master of, is the short pitch or run-up to the pin. And the thing that ruins this seemingly simple shot most often is the unconscious habit of looking up. The golfer will do well always to remind himself of the danger of looking up on these shots. Better still is to give yourself a habit that will prevent it largely, and the best of habits in this respect is to turn the head to the right while making this shot. Thus you look at the ball apparently with the left eye only and you will observe that the clearness with which you see it makes it look like a croquet ball. With the head thus turned you pretty nearly see the clubhead go through, as you should. This practice will save you many a dubbed run-up and also will enable you now and then to get down with one putt.

Wellsville-Salem Clash Heads List; Locals At Toronto

Columbiana county scholastic football interest this afternoon is centered chiefly on the Salem-Wellsville battle at Hammond park, Wellsville, in a clash that will provide the first real test of the campaign for the Orange and Black.

East Liverpool's Blue and White will sojourn for the day in Toronto and are anticipating anything but an easy contest, with Bromby and McConville, backfield stars, and Captain Dick Larkins, center, out of the lineup.

Leetonia, recovering from the effects of a 28 to 0 drubbing administered last Saturday at Wellsville, will be idle.

Lisbon is slated for an engagement at East Palestine and advance dope places the East Palestine eleven in the position of favorites.

Ray Wilde's Chester eleven, improving as the season goes along, also will draw no small amount of interest in its clash with Wellsburg at Chester.

Cuba's most popular sport is baseball and all players' supplies are from the United States.

GLITTER

By Katharine Brush

BOOK FOUR—XI.

He was sitting in the lobby of the Biltmore, waiting for Bill Olmstead, who had vowed he would be there at four sharp but who at four-thiry had not arrived. Bill was now employed in a New York bank, where, according to him, he "filled inkwells," and he and Jock met now and then to lay new fuel on the embers of their campus intimacy. Today they were thoroughly to investigate an unconfirmed report that there was genuine Bacardi to be had at a drug store on Forty-fifth street, by the simple expedient of asking for Mr. Wilson, giving Mr. Wilson certain moneys, and observing that Mr. Mercer (articulated clearly or all's lost) sent you to him.

The afternoon was Friday, the month November, and the Biltmore lobby swarmed with chattering humans who later in the day, or early the next day, would hie them down to Princeton for the gridiron classic. Spruce long-legged boys, big-eyed girls, portly dowagers, in endless panorama. Jock watched interestedly, making mental comments. "Gee, pretty! No, she isn't, not near to. Lotta girls disappoint you that way. One thing about Yvonne, she doesn't. . . . Don't see a soul I know. Funny, how soon you lose touth. . . . That lad's pretty well oiled. They'll have to wake him for the touchdowns tomorrow if he keeps that up. . . . Twenty bucks' worth of orchids and a dime's worth of woman — who went crazy there, I wonder? . . . Why do girls shriek so? 'Hello, people' at the top of her lungs. Could say 'Hello, Brooklyn' and it would carry all right. . . . Hate that type of fellow. . . . What's that on her stockings, oil or a birthmark? . . . Wonder where he got that suit. Not bad. . . . There's what's-his-name. Best punter Princeton ever had. Selling insurance now, but still walks as though he heard cheering. . . . Say, where the hell's Bill, anyway?"

He glanced up at the clock again, and was on the point of rising to leave when a voice at his ear said blithely, "You look nice, I guess I'll sit by you!"

He turned his head—

"Peg!"

"Guilty."

They shook hands with great gusto. She was, Jock perceived, the same Peg. Same laughing eyes, same infectious grin, same impudent, pert pug nose. . . . The mere sight of that nose made him feel suddenly gleeful. "It's still there!" he exclaimed, involuntarily, and quite inanely.

"What's still there?"

"Your nose—"

This struck them both as excruciatingly funny, and they rocked with muffled mirth, pressing their mouths tight shut and puffing out their cheeks. "You bet it's there!" Peg said, when the paroxysm had abated a little. "That's my trade-mark. Peg, Limited. The Nose With a Smile. Ask the Man Who Owns One—say, you knew I was married, didn't you? Of course you did, you were the bum who wouldn't come up to Boston for my wedding but sent me a pretty pickle dish or something. One of these days I'll write and thank you, but until then let's let it go because I'm not at all sure it was a pickle dish—sorry, but you know how weddings are—we drew five hundred and three presents, five hundred of them pickle dishes, so that I'm considering putting a notice in the paper, 'All those who sent pickle dishes to Johnny Havens and spouse'—"

"Hold up!" cred Jock. "Are you going to talk all night, woman? Let me get in a few questions. What are you doing in New York? Where's your husband? And all about it. Bones never writes, you know. I had a string of simple postcards from him from abroad, but I haven't had a word since he got back—except a recipe for making beer, all by itself in an envelope. What's he up to, the old son-of-a-gun?"

"He's working for dad. At least, he thinks he is—dad, of course, thinks differently. Son-of-a-gun is right, he almost broke up my wedding! He was best man, you know, and instead of attempting to cheer poor Johnny up he kept whispering 'She snores,' and little brotherly things like that, all the time I was moseying down the aisle! What else did you ask me? Oh, yes—why, we're living here. Down in Greenwich Village. Johnny's father owns the New York Log, and Johnny—here he comes now! On time, for once in his life. Act as if you're in love with me, Jock—I think that's good for husbands—"

People were always conscious of a surprised sensation the first time they saw Johnny Havens. This was because his hair was extremely blonde, almost white, and his eyes and eyebrows were coal black—a combination so startling that you required a second or two in which to accustom yourself to it. After that you discovered that he was very handsome, and big with a bigness that reminded you of things. Outdoor things. The crack of a shot in th eforest. The cut of a boat through wings of spray. Camp fires, and piney air, and gray flannel shirts with corduroy trousers. . . . All of which, in view of the fact that he was suited by Brooks Brothers, worked at journalism, and seldom went out of New York if he could help it, was quite absurd.

Jock had never met a man he liked so well on sight, and as the four of them (Bill Olmstead had arrived, breathless and propitiatory, on the heels of Johnny) sat drinking tea around a table a little later, the liking grew into something deep and strong and destined to last. And mutual. Every so often the wash of the world eddies together two souls so essentially congenial that they admire each other at once, love each other thereafter, and entertain each other to the point where everything said by one, however slight, excites the risibilities of the other. Jock and Johnny were thus. Either of them had only to say "Pass the salt," and the other howled and clapped him on the back.

So they had a hilarious tea party, taking it all in all, and Jock enjoyed himself hugely. At the same time he was conscious of tiny pangs of envy. Peg and Johnny were so happy! Even though they joked about their marriage, teased one another, you could not miss the contented undertone, and it gave you a feeling of standing shivery-cold and looking through a window at firelight. Jock tried hard to shrug away this feeling. "In just a couple of months now—" he kept telling himself, and he wondered why he was not comforted.

"I'll tell you what we'll do," said Peg, who adored to arrange. "We'll lap up this tea and stuff, and then we'll all go 'round to our place and call up some people and have a bender. Tomorrow's Johnny's and my anniversary—six weeks married and no bureaus heaved by either party—and something ought to be done about it. Jock, you get your Yvonne—I've been dying to clap eyes on that woman ever since the day you raved about her for two hours straight and never repeated yourself once—"

"Can't," interrupted Jock, grinning. "I work nights. Didn't Bones tell you?"

"For the love of Pete, are you still doing that?"

"I am."

Peg sat back in her chair, looking reproachful, and brandished a teaspoon at her husband. "Listen, Johnny! Listen while I tell you the tale of another good man gone wrong. This bunny you see before you, endowed by God with all the—Ow! Quit that, Jock! Johnny, he's pinching me!"

"Just the same," she said, when peace was restored, "I'm ashamed of you, Jock."

(To be continued)

NEW VAMP TYPE IN "WANING SEX"

Mary McAllister Has Role in Picture at American.

Enter the new type of vamp, the 1926 model. She makes her debut in "The Waning Sex," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture starring Norma Shearer, now at the American theatre.

The tall, slinky, green-eyed mammas whose glossy gowns fit them with the fidelity of court plaster and much less discretion, whose languorous, tabasco glances and ravishing smiles led the weakened victims to doom, have been replaced.

The flapper vamp is now in style. She may be old but it doesn't show, and instead of dragging her victims in with a hard-boiled "Kiss me, fool," she lures them with baby-talk and extravagant flattery.

She is blonde and fluffy and helpless, and all she knows about men is that they should be made comfortable. And, boy, she's deadly!

Mary McAlister, once a favorite child star, is personifying the new model vamp in "The Waning Sex."

"Ask any woman with a husband," says Mary, who hasn't one, "and she will admit that the baby-faced, sweet, shy, frightened little widow, grass or sod, is the most dangerous vamp in the world. The kind who looks into a man's face and says, 'Oh, aren't you big and strong and wonderful.' The old-fashioned vamps always commanded their men. They haven't a chance with the vamps that lead them with flattery and the more subtle wiles."

Conrad Nagel is the hero who eludes the wiles of the new-style vamp, and the cast of the picture includes Norma Shearer, star, and George K. Arthur.

GLITTER

By Katharine Brush

BOOK FOUR—XI.

He was sitting in the lobby of the Biltmore, waiting for Bill Olmstead, who had vowed he would be there at four sharp but who at four-thiry had not arrived. Bill was now employed in a New York bank, where, according to him, he "filled inkwells," and he and Jock met now and then to lay new fuel on the embers of their campus intimacy. Today they were thoroughly to investigate an unconfirmed report that there was genuine Bacardi to be had at a drug store on Forty-fifth street, by the simple expedient of asking for Mr. Wilson, giving Mr. Wilson certain moneys, and observing that Mr. Mercer (articulated clearly or all's lost) sent you to him.

The afternoon was Friday, the month November, and the Biltmore lobby swarmed with chattering humans who later in the day, or early the next day, would hie them down to Princeton for the gridiron classic. Spruce long-legged boys, big-eyed girls, portly dowagers, in endless panorama. Jock watched interestedly, making mental comments. "Gee, pretty! No, she isn't, not near to. Lotta girls disappoint you that way. One thing about Yvonne, she doesn't. . . . Don't see a soul I know. Funny, how soon you lose touth. . . . That lad's pretty well oiled. They'll have to wake him for the touchdowns tomorrow if he keeps that up. . . . Twenty bucks' worth of orchids and a dime's worth of woman — who went crazy there, I wonder? . . . Why do girls shriek so? 'Hello, people' at the top of her lungs. Could say 'Hello, Brooklyn' and it would carry all right. . . . Hate that type of fellow. . . . What's that on her stockings, oil or a birthmark? . . . Wonder where he got that suit. Not bad. . . . There's what's-his-name. Best punter Princeton ever had. Selling insurance now, but still walks as though he heard cheering. . . . Say, where the hell's Bill, anyway?"

He glanced up at the clock again, and was on the point of rising to leave when a voice at his ear said blithely, "You look nice, I guess I'll sit by you!"

He turned his head—

"Peg!"

"Guilty."

They shook hands with great gusto. She was, Jock perceived, the same Peg. Same laughing eyes, same infectious grin, same impudent, pert pug nose. . . . The mere sight of that nose made him feel suddenly gleeful. "It's still there!" he exclaimed, involuntarily, and quite inanely.

"What's still there?"

"Your nose—"

This struck them both as excruciatingly funny, and they rocked with muffled mirth, pressing their mouths tight shut and puffing out their cheeks. "You bet it's there!" Peg said, when the paroxysm had abated a little. "That's my trade-mark. Peg, Limited. The Nose With a Smile. Ask the Man Who Owns One—say, you knew I was married, didn't you? Of course you did, you were the bum who wouldn't come up to Boston for my wedding but sent me a pretty pickle dish or something. One of these days I'll write and thank you, but until then let's let it go because I'm not at all sure it was a pickle dish—sorry, but you know how weddings are—we drew five hundred and three presents, five hundred of them pickle dishes, so that I'm considering putting a notice in the paper, 'All those who sent pickle dishes to Johnny Havens and spouse'—"

"Hold up!" cred Jock. "Are you going to talk all night, woman? Let me get in a few questions. What are you doing in New York? Where's your husband? And all about it. Bones never writes, you know. I had a string of simple postcards from him from abroad, but I haven't had a word since he got back—except a recipe for making beer, all by itself in an envelope. What's he up to, the old son-of-a-gun?"

"He's working for dad. At least, he thinks he is—dad, of course, thinks differently. Son-of-a-gun is right, he almost broke up my wedding! He was best man, you know, and instead of attempting to cheer poor Johnny up he kept whispering 'She snores,' and little brotherly things like that, all the time I was moseying down the aisle! What else did you ask me? Oh, yes—why, we're living here. Down in Greenwich Village. Johnny's father owns the New York Log, and Johnny—here he comes now! On time, for once in his life. Act as if you're in love with me, Jock—I think that's good for husbands—"

People were always conscious of a surprised sensation the first time they saw Johnny Havens. This was because his hair was extremely blonde, almost white, and his eyes and eyebrows were coal black—a combination so startling that you required a second or two in which to accustom yourself to it. After that you discovered that he was very handsome, and big with a bigness that reminded you of things. Outdoor things. The crack of a shot in th eforest. The cut of a boat through wings of spray. Camp fires, and piney air, and gray flannel shirts with corduroy trousers. . . . All of which, in view of the fact that he was suited by Brooks Brothers, worked at journalism, and seldom went out of New York if he could help it, was quite absurd.

Jock had never met a man he liked so well on sight, and as the four of them (Bill Olmstead had arrived, breathless and propitiatory, on the heels of Johnny) sat drinking tea around a table a little later, the liking grew into something deep and strong and destined to last. And mutual. Every so often the wash of the world eddies together two souls so essentially congenial that they admire each other at once, love each other thereafter, and entertain each other to the point where everything said by one, however slight, excites the risibilities of the other. Jock and Johnny were thus. Either of them had only to say "Pass the salt," and the other howled and clapped him on the back.

So they had a hilarious tea party, taking it all in all, and Jock enjoyed himself hugely. At the same time he was conscious of tiny pangs of envy. Peg and Johnny were so happy! Even though they joked about their marriage, teased one another, you could not miss the contented undertone, and it gave you a feeling of standing shivery-cold and looking through a window at firelight. Jock tried hard to shrug away this feeling. "In just a couple of months now—" he kept telling himself, and he wondered why he was not comforted.

"I'll tell you what we'll do," said Peg, who adored to arrange. "We'll lap up this tea and stuff, and then we'll all go 'round to our place and call up some people and have a bender. Tomorrow's Johnny's and my anniversary—six weeks married and no bureaus heaved by either party—and something ought to be done about it. Jock, you get your Yvonne—I've been dying to clap eyes on that woman ever since the day you raved about her for two hours straight and never repeated yourself once—"

"Can't," interrupted Jock, grinning. "I work nights. Didn't Bones tell you?"

"For the love of Pete, are you still doing that?"

"I am."

Peg sat back in her chair, looking reproachful, and brandished a teaspoon at her husband. "Listen, Johnny! Listen while I tell you the tale of another good man gone wrong. This bunny you see before you, endowed by God with all the—Ow! Quit that, Jock! Johnny, he's pinching me!"

"Just the same," she said, when peace was restored, "I'm ashamed of you, Jock."

(To be continued)

NEW VAMP TYPE IN "WANING SEX"

Mary McAllister Has Role in Picture at American.

Enter the new type of vamp, the 1926 model. She makes her debut in "The Waning Sex," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture starring Norma Shearer, now at the American theatre.

The tall, slinky, green-eyed mammas whose glossy gowns fit them with the fidelity of court plaster and much less discretion, whose languorous, tabasco glances and ravishing smiles led the weakened victims to doom, have been replaced.

The flapper vamp is now in style. She may be old but it doesn't show, and instead of dragging her victims in with a hard-boiled "Kiss me, fool," she lures them with baby-talk and extravagant flattery.

She is blonde and fluffy and helpless, and all she knows about men is that they should be made comfortable. And, boy, she's deadly!

Mary McAlister, once a favorite child star, is personifying the new model vamp in "The Waning Sex." "Ask any woman with a husband," says Mary, who hasn't one, "and she will admit that the baby-faced, sweet, shy, frightened little widow, grass or sod, is the most dangerous vamp in the world. The kind who looks into a man's face and says, 'Oh, aren't you big and strong and wonderful.' The old-fashioned vamps always commanded their men. They haven't a chance with the vamps that lead them with flattery and the more subtle wiles."

Conrad Nagel is the hero who eludes the wiles of the new-style vamp, and the cast of the picture includes Norma Shearer, star, and George K. Arthur.

NEW STEEL MILL FOR WELLSBURG

Ground Will be Broken Next Month For Huge Plant.

A new steel fabricating mill will be erected at Wellsburg at an approximate cost of $325,000.

Wellsburg citizens Friday night pledged themselves to $50,000 worth of common stock in the new mill, assuring its success.

The major part of the stock has been underwritten by the Ohio Valley Industrial Corporation. At first, when the success of the plan was uncertain, owing to the fact that enough local capital could not be interested, a committee of Wellsburg mon journeyed to Steubenville to try to interest the chamber of commerce of that city. Their efforts were unavailing and the plan seemed doomed to failure.

Only $31,000 of the prescribed $50,000 could be raised in Wellsburg. The deadline was set at twelve last night and in the meantime Wheeling business interests had underwritten over $200,000 worth of the stock.

Plans for breaking ground and starting actual construction are already laid and work will start on December 1. The site selected is in the upper portion of the city and is highly desirable as a building site for factories.

The plant will manufacture steel drums and the production will likely exceed 2,500, possibly nearer the 3,000 mark. The plant will consume an output of sheet steel equal to that produced by three sheet mills. It will be one of the largest mills of its kind in the country.

EDDIE CANTOR FILM COMING

"Kid Boots" on Screen Monday at Ceramic.

For years Broadway claimed Eddie Cantor as its own. A million and a quarter people saw the musical comedy star in "Kid Boots" during its three-year New York run.

Now, Paramount, through the medium of a superb motion picture version of Florenz Ziegfeld's "Kid Boots," has brought the much lauded show and its star to the screen. "Kid Boots" opens a three-day run Monday at the Ceramic theatre.

Cantor himself is authority for the statement that the screen offers far greater comedy possibilities than the stage. The critical public has acclaimed "Kid Boots" enthusiastically wherever it has been shown, lauding the film as the year's most convincing laugh compeller.

Clean, free-moving comedy, effervescing with funny situations, which clip merrily through a story rent with heart throbs, blend into the picture.

Inimitable Eddie Cantor as the "come-on" of a second-hand store, competing for trade against two burley neighbors, lends ample latitude for the introduction of ingenious comedy. With the entrance of entrancing Clara Bow and her husky would-be lover, Malcolm Waite, Eddie finds himself fairly wallowing in trouble.

The rapid transition of the advancing story to a luxurious apartment, then an exclusive golf club and finally to the court house in a roundabout route which winds through city traffic and over mountain trails and cliffs, causes the laughs to build up in elaborate fashion.

Clara Bow is as subtly impertinent and refreshing as ever as the swimming instructress, and "Kid Boots" introduces the heroine of "Mantrap' in a new surprise to her fans—a bathing suit. Other featured players include lovely Billie Dove, and handsome Lawrence Gray. Frank Tuttle directed from Tom Gibson's screen play.

GIRL JAILED AS SUSPECT IN BANK HOLD-UP

Grace Ford, 25, of Indianapolis, Held at Detroit.

$4,700 IS FOUND

Alleged Part of $40,000 Loot in Robbery.

DETROIT, Oct. 23.—Grace Ford, 25-year-old Indianapolis girl and possessor of a $20,000 wardrobe, was arrested here yesterday after $4,700 in cash, alleged to be part of the $40,000 loot in the holdup of the Union Trust company, Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 15, was found in her room in Indianapolis.

She was found in the Stratford Arms hotel. A companion, Helen Rose, 22, also was arrested.

According to Detective William Brickley, of Indianapolis, who reached Detroit today, the Ford girl is the sweetheart of Jesse Stevens, who has been arrested in Indianapolis in the bank robbery case.

Detective Brickley said that Stevens has confessed to being one of four men who held up the trust company. He implicated three other men who are believed to be hiding in Detroit, according to Brickley. Detroit police agreed to launch a city-wide search for them.

Miss Ford's arrest followed attempts by her to communicate with an Indianapolis criminal attorney to obtain his services in behalf of Stevens, Brickley said. The girl will be returned to Indianapolis on a charge of receiving stolen property.

THE French franc went up yesterday, the pound sterling went down. Britain is worried by labor troubles and a special session of parliament is called for Monday. It will again give the government emergency powers, and another effort will be made to make labor work, as aristocracy thinks it ought to work.

FRANCE is fairly cheerful, and probably enjoys the joke, when a solemn, well-fed American banker says, "France's only hope is in great thrift, utmost thrift."

Americans do not know what thrift means except as a word in the dictionary. Every French child could teach that banker thrift.

SWEET ALICE WALL STREET got up yesterday, all ready for a good cry, and burst into bullish smiles, as soon as the ticker began ticking.

All the goblins in the world seemed to be let loose when talk came of gigantic tariff reductions, and Wall Street beat its breast.

But President Coolidge and Secretary Mellon let it be known that they will do all they can to co-operate in tariff reduction, but not American tariff reduction.

ALSO Mr. Mellon hears that J. P. Morgan denies that he signed any international bankers' tariff cut appeal. That comforted Wall Street. Down there they are interested in Morgan as Kipling's bandarlog were interested in the comings and goings of the black panther.

THE world sympathizes with Cuba and the beautiful city of Havana, visited by a tornado of terrific power, with loss of life, and property damage reported at thirty millions.

The Cubans will quickly repair the damage, and be ready to receive their friends when cold weather comes again.

IT HAS come in some places. Northern Vermont was cut off from the outside world by snow and sleet storms yesterday, several towns were deprived of electric light.

And at that time electric light's forty-seventh birthday was being celebrated by Thomas A. Edison, its chief inventor.

CARBICELLA BROTHERS AND TWO OTHERS HELD IN WELLSVILLE MURDER

Chief of Police John H. Fultz Makes Surprise Arrests Early Today Upon His Return From Cleveland Where Other Suspects Were Captured Yesterday and Later Brought to Lisbon.

MIKE SCIO AND MIKE KAZANNO ARE APPREHENDED IN FOREST CITY

Rocco Carbicella, Who, With Frank Fusco, Was Convicted of Attempted Bribery in Connection with Sheriff's Inquiry Into Slaying of Patrolman, and Bennie Carbicella in Jail.

With the surprise arrest of Rocco and Bennie Carbicella, brothers, of Wellsville, this morning at 4 o'clock at their homes there, on charges of first degree murder the number of suspects now held in connection with the death of Patrolman James Kenney on May 17 was increased to five, the largest number of persons ever held at one time in Columbiana county history on a murder charge.

The arrest of the Carbicella brothers followed closely in the wake of other unexpected developments in the case at Cleveland yesterday when Mike Scioa and Mike Kazanno, both residents of Cleveland, were placed in custody by Chief of Police John Fultz, of Wellsville.

The two Carbicellas, Scioa and Kazanno were arraigned on murder charges this morning at 4:30 o'clock before Justice M. K. Zimerman, at Lisbon. Each pleaded not guilty and was held for the grand jury without bond.

Rocco Carbicella, along with Frank Fusco, was convicted recently of attempted bribery in connection with the Kenney murder inquiry. They now are awaiting a court ruling on a motion for a new trial.

Nick Scaccuto, arrested in Wellsville in a house near Central park a few hours after the discovery of the patrolman's body, is awaiting trial on a first degree murder indictment

Joseph Fusco, whose case was continued by the grand jury, is another figure in the murder case.

Arrests in Cleveland.

The arrest of Scioa and Kazanno was made by Chief Fultz in Cleveland Friday with the assistance of Cleveland detectives, Carl Zucarelli and John Corso. Early this week, Fultz got a tip that these two men had been in Wellsville at the time of the Kenney slaying. Fultz went to Cleveland Thursday and Sheriff George Wright and Deputy Kindsvatter met him in the Fifth city yesterday.

Kazanno and Scoia were brought from Cleveland last night and immediately after the return of the authorities, they drove to Wellsville, getting Rocco Carbicella out of bed at his home in Main street and Bennie Carbicella at his home in Broadway.

Both were taken to the Lisbon jail by Sheriff Wright and Deputy Kindsvatter, and upon their arrival the quartet, including the Cleveland suspects, were arraigned before Justice Zimerman.

Action of the city and county authorities followed disclosures said to have been made during the last week.

Special Venire of Jurors.

A special venire of jurors will be drawn when the case against Scaccuto is called to trial in common pleas court.

Seventy-five names are to be drawn from the jury wheel under the new law, and these will not be persons who previously have been drawn for duty.

It is probable that this case will be assigned for trial during November.

MISS CHRISTINE MacLEOD, HIGH SCHOOL SENIOR, TELLS WHY DISTRICT VOTERS SHOULD APPROVE PROPOSED 2.3 MILL LEVY ON TUESDAY, NOV.2

[Editor's Note—"Let us take an interest in the intellectual standard of our community," urges Christine MacLeod, daughter of Rev. Dr. D. W. MacLeod, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, who as a senior in high school, today wrote the following appeal for approval of the 2.3 mill school levy at the Nov. 2 election.]

By CHRISTINE MACLEOD.

Citizens of East Liverpool, I beg of you to think with me concerning the passing of the 2.3 mill school levy.

Perhaps you do not have sons or daughters in school and you feel that the passing of the school lexy will be of no benefit to you, but do not let such a mistake deceive you.

You who have sons or daughters in school ought to be interested in this levy and back it. Do you want your child to attend the school where the training will either be shortened, or where the work will necessarily have to be so rushed that they will be deprived of the knowledge of many fundamentals which are invaluable?

You who have children preparing for college, realize that they cannot enter into any college with such an abbreviated course.

You who have children who are not going to college, but who wish to enter the commercial or business world, must realize that no business man wishes to take into his employ anyone whose course of preparation has been rushed or not fully completed.

Perhaps you may say, "I did not have an education, and I am getting along in this world, why do my children need it?" You must remember that the world of today is very different from that of twenty-five years ago. People today realize the importance of education, and having so many educated people from which to choose, they do not wish to employ those without this advancement.

Besides, do you wish to keep your children back from that which is their first right and due, because you yourself did not have that privilege?

One of the great characteristics of in American race is the fact that they have never been satisfied to remain in the rut of their ancestors, but have pushed forward to greater knowledge. Your child may have hidden qualities which only the school can bring out. Do not deprive him of knowledge.

Perhaps you do not consider that one of the greatest expenses of having a child in school is paid by the school, that is the buying of books. In many cities the children are compelled to buy their own books. In East Liverpool they are saved that expense. The cost of a child per year in East Liverpool is $50.00. In most places that cost is $60, $70, $80, $90 and up. Elyria with about the same population and one thousand fewer pupils contributed one-half more to the schools, while in Steubenville the income was double that of this city.

You who do not have children in school should realize the effect of the schools upon the community. In a ocuntry where government depends upon the consent of the governed, the coming citizens must be taught citizenship in their youth. This training they receive from the schools. Since the beginning of our government, intelligent men have realized the importance of this.

The only clause of the famous ordinance of 1787 that is now remembered is the following: "Religion, morality, and knowledge being necessary to good government and the happiness of mankind, schools and the means of education should forever be encouraged." A person with a well-trained mind can make a much wider application of his experiences than one who does not possess this training. Therefore, it follows: that of all the forces that work for man's education, the school has the most direct and most widespread influence.

The school levy is comparatively small, especially in consideration of the vast benefits reaped from it. Do you wish to live in a community where the education of its citizens has been limited? Slowly the intelligence of the community would decrease. Do you not feel it your duty to see that this does not occur?

There are 5,401 pupils enroiled in the public schools of this city.

Each pupil is a separate and dis-

Juvenile Bible Study

One question for each day is provided. The parent will find it interesting and helpful to have the child take up the question each day and aid it in finding the answer in the Scriptures, thus developing a knowledge of the Bible and where to find in it the things decided. Send or bring the little folks to the class Sunday at 1:45 p. m. The "Ceramic Cafeteria Auditorium," 121 West Fifth Street.

458. Who was it that betrayed Jesus into the hands of His enemies?

Answer: It was Judas, one of His twelve apostles. See Matthew 26:47-50.

459. Who was it that insisted that Jesus be crucified?

Answer: "The chief priests and officers"—those of the highest rank of the religious element of that day. See John 19:6.

460. Were the church class promisd earthly blessings for their obedience?

Answer: No. They were promised that in this world they should have tribulation. See John 16:33.

461. Where they to be loved by the worldly minded Christians?

Answer: No. They were to be hated for their faithfulness to the Lord and His truth. See John 15:19; Matthew 24:9,10.

462. Did the Lord Jesus foretell that some of the Lord's true followers would be put into prison and otherwise persecuted during this "great time of trouble?"

Answer: He did. He showed how there would be a great world war, then earthquakes (revolutions), then famines and pestilences. He then said that "before all these they shall lay hands on you and persecute you, delivering you up to the synagogues, and into prisons, being brought before kings and rulers for my name's sake." See Luke 21:10-12.

463. What people had this experience during the world war and "before all these"—before the last one named—the great "pestilence"—the "Flu?"

Answer: The Bible Students.

464. What is the hope of those that are truly the Lord's?

Answer: To be like Him (Jesus) and see Him as He is (I. John 3:2); to be with Him where He is and behold His glory (John 17:24); to be heirs of God and joint-heirs with Christ and to be also glorified together with Him (Romans 8:17); to be partakers of the divine nature (II Peter 1:4); to be priests of God and of Christ and to reign with Him a thousand years (Revelation 20:5) and to be Abraham's seed (Galatians 3:29) which is to bless all the families (Genesis 12:3) and nations (Genesis 22:18) that have ever lived on the earth.

Added Beauty In an Hour

By Edna Wallace Hopper

I use a hair dressing which great experts made especially for me. It keeps my hair in curl, gives it a sheen. I never go to a hairdresser, never have a Marcel wave. Yet everyone who sees me on the stage or off marvels at my wavy, glowing hair.

Now I have placed this dressing at every woman's call. All toilet counters supply it as Edna Wallace Hopper's Wave and Sheen. The price is 75c. My guarantee comes with each bottle. If it doesn't delight you, doesn't double the beauty of your hair at once, ask for your money back.

Go try it now. It is one of the best helps I ever found for women, especially for those with bobbed hair.

Are You Overdoing?

Hurry, Worry, and Overwork Bring Heavy Strain.

MODERN life throws a heavy burden on our bodily machinery. The eliminative organs, especially the kidneys, are apt to be overtaxed and become sluggish. Retention of excess uric acid and other poisonous waste is apt to give rise to a dull, tired feeling and, often, toxic backaches and headaches. That the kidneys are not functioning properly is sometimes shown by burning or scanty passage of secretions. More and more people are learning to assist their kidneys by drinking plenty of pure water and the occasional use of Doan's Pills—a tested stimulant diuretic. Ask your neighbor!

British Subsidy Aid To Beet Industry; Record Production

NORWICH, Eng.—The sugar-beet industry—subsidized by the State—is going ahead by leaps and bounds in Britain.

Norfolk, the center of the industry, has grown more than 15,000 acres of beet this year. At the Centley factory, Norwich, 1,500 tons of beet can be crushed daily. Altogether, throughout Britain, the beet acreage has risen from 55,000 acres in 1925 to 125,000 acres this year, and where nine sugar factories operated last year, 14 are in full swing this year.

Prices are guaranteed by the Government and this makes the industry well worth the farmer's while. This year's crop is the finest ever known and many farmers in the great ploughland district of the Eastern Counties who scarcely knew how to make both ends meets are now finding themselves prosperous through beet.

Salvation Army Relief Campaign

The Salvation Army will launch a 24-hour campaign Monday for $10,000 to finance relief activities for the year ending Nov. 1, 1927, and also to meet a deficit incurred so far this year in answering appeals for assistance from the needy.

The 42-year record of the organization in the East Liverpool district is so well known that it should be unnecessary to refer to the humanitarian work of this agency which knows no creed in the distribution of food, clothing, fuel and money for rents, not to mention a score of other ways in which it aids the poor. For example, during the past year $6,671.57 has been expended by Field Major Joseph Hughes and his associates. Relief in the form of groceries, coal, clothing, etc., was given 1,213 families, or 5,171 persons. While temporary aid was provided for 4,618 others and sick relief for 258 families.

Indicative of the work among transients, the records show that 2,307 persons were given meals and lodges; 53 others received shoes, 176 were given garments, 34 received medical attention and 10 were provided transportation. In all, 17 tons of coal, 2,978 garments and 63 pices of furniture were distributed.

While the relief work has been increased since the Red Cross chapter ceased activities, this is only a part of the Salvation Army's program. The organization co-operates with court authorities and police in handling cases in which children are involved.

The American people have not forgotten the Salvation Army lassie and the part her doughnuts played in maintaining the morale of Yankee soldiers, sailors and marines during the World war.

Remember the Salvation Army slogan, "A man may be down but he is never out," and untie your purse strings Tuesday, when Campaign Chairman W. H. Vodrey and his 100 workers begin their rounds.

The Humble "Gas" Tax

Don't grudge the tax you pay when you buy gasoline—as you do overywhere in the United States except New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts and Illinois. Your two or three or four cents a gallon swells to a mighty and beneficent total, along with the other fellows' tax.

The gasoline taxes in the entire country amounted to just about $85,000,000 for the first six months of this year. The total for the year will be near $200,000,000.

Most of that money is poured directly into good roads. No wonder the motorist finds smoother going and readier access everywhere in the land. A few more years of this, with good engineering and honest spending, and America will have a matchless system of highways.

Frivolous News

"We are at the point of demoralization as a people in considering great subjects affecting national welfare," complains Congressman Theodore E. Burton. "What do we see in the papers? Bud Stillman and the girl he's going to marry. Baseball and pugilism. And then—Peaches Browning and that husband of hers!" At which point the dignified lawmaker almost turns speechless with disgust.

"That's the sort of stuff everybody is thinking about," he adds sorrowfully. "Interesting—but not enough to fill the newspapers. Let us dismiss this trivial gossip."

Fortunately it doesn't really fill the papers. There is still some room left for the Queen of Roumania, and even for the political campaign.

But, admitting that a great deal of somewhat frivolous matter does get into the papers, a humble editor is obliged to ask what Congressman Burton, or anyone else, proposes to do about the matter. For people are "thinking about it," and want it, and it's human stuff, and there's a surprising amount of humanity in human beings. Besides, no newspaper that ever tried to restrict its news to matters of sober dignity and serious import has received enough public support to pay expenses.

Europe Gets Together

A miracle seems to be happening in Europe. The quarrelling nations of that continent are drawing together. There are even business alliances among old enemies, and there is serious talk of a "European economic confederation."

Americans do not overlook the fact that a good deal of this co-operation is inspired by fear or dislike of America. There is much anti-American feeling.

It would be foolish to say that America doesn't mind that. No country wants others leagued against it, whether for war or business. Yet the situation represents an improvement. Europe had better get together, even against us, than not get together at all.

Spunky Edward's Wonderful Chemical Discovery— By Fontaine Fox

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Broadway after the theatre has become a colorful bazaar. Due to traffic congestion most theatre goers walk out of the district to their cars and the street swarms with high hats, gleaming white shirts, furred shoulders and blazing headdress.

There are almost as many beggars as those strewn along the Appian Way. They are thickest around the canopies of those theatres where sentimental drama has been unfolded. They realize softened hearts may have been carried out into the night.

It is the busiest hour of a busy day for those little trinket shops where almost the entire stock is displayed in dazzling windows. The gaudy soft drink stands that bloom in the building crevices are swamped with trade. So are souvenir shops.

Instead of rushing off to cafes New York is going shopping and this is largely responsible for store rooms being sliced into cubicles for perfume parlors, jewelry, gloves, rhinestones and other glittering baubles. They thrive on after thetare trade.

Pianos thump in song sheet shops. Impudent barkers stand in front of haberdasheries. Window demonstrators display virtues of coiled wire sleeve garters, adjustable cravats, self-filling pens and pipe cleaners.

And brisk sidewalk salesmen have their hour hawking wrist watches, combination manicure sets, grotesque mechanical toys, rubber ducks that quack and pigs that grunt. They work hurriedly and indulgent police usually leave them alone.

Thousands of dollars exchange hand in this brief period of hurry-up bargaining. Nobody lingers. Patrons pop in and out in the scuttling manner of the gopher.

A rather startling illustration of the high rental for tiny Broadway shops is revealed by George Rector. His father paid a yearly rental of $12,000 for the entire building at 44th street and Broadway which housed Rector's cafe. That 15 years ago was a rent record on Broadway. Today a 12 by six soft drink stand, almost lost among the many shops in the building, pays an annual rental of $25,000.

In the screaming red-inked headlines of the Valentino passing and the Ederle arrival New York lost sight of the passing of a man who sent the impress of his genius around the world and not without a little amusement. His slogans flashed in lights on Montmarte hill near Sacre Coeur, in Kioti, Bombay and Capri. He was Milton Feasley, a young man in his early thirties from Poland, who had a burning desire to write a romantic novel and made several thousand a week writing halitosis ads.

The manner in which patent medicine quakery flourished in the Nineties is illustrated by the recent passing of a man who made a fortune selling 'memory tablets" by mail. His expansive offices were on lower Fifth avenue and he appealed to the yokelry with two-inch ads, headed: "Be brilliant and Eminent!" The memory restorative tablets sold for one dollar a packet and were reputed to increase the memory "tenfold." Out of this hocus pocus was a fortune built.

And I am told the electric belt draws a slight trade in certain sections of the South as a cure all, but nowadays we are sophisticated. We like to be gypped with our eyes open and pay a ticket speculator $12 for a two dollar seat.

HASKINS' LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Gassing Moths and Bugs.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 23.—Recently the chemical warfare service was asked to co-operate with the Quartermaster Corps in aiding in the fumigation of certain materials which were in danger of being completely destroyed by moths. Every housewife knows the constant fear that during the summer months the winter clothing or woolen blankets may be attacked by these pests. It is such a tragedy to find that a favorite coat or bed covering has been ruined by moths!

The army has the same worry, only on a much longer scale than that of the ordinary householder. If moths or other destructive pests get a firm foothold in a warehouse it means a tremendous loss to Uncle Sam. It may mount into the hundreds of thousands of dollars. It therefore behooves those entrusted with the care and storage of government materials to take every possible precaution.

While many things have been found to destroy the adult moth it is very difficult to kill the worm or larva. There is one thing that will do this, although it is very dangerous to use unless the person using it is experienced. Hydrocyanic gas has been used as a fumigant for many years but it is particularly dangerous because it is practically odorless and a person working with it might be overcome without warning. The chemical war service, however, has devised a method of combining it with cyanogen chloride, which is a vigorous lachrymator. This tear gas gives sufficient warning for the operator to don a mask or get out before it is too late. In other words, when the tears begin to come it is time to leave.

It is interesting to note some of the instances where this cyanogen chloride gas mixture has been successfully used to destroy, not only moths, but bedbugs, cockroaches, flour weevils and rodents. At Jeffersonville, Indiana, the stock of cloth, felt, saddles, sheep skins, blankets, and other articles of army equipment maintained at the Quartermaster Intermediate depot there, were treated with this gas.

The building was made as air tight as possible and care was taken that no unauthorized person should remain in it. Those conducting the actual experiment were equipped with a special type of gas mask devised by the chemical warfare service and instructed in its use. It was so arranged that each worker was kept in full sight of at least one other man who was prepared to go to his assistance in the event he showed any indication of being affected by the gas.

Results Wholly Satisfactory.

The building was kept closed for 24 hours and then the gas was gradually released. There was no trace of the gas for a few hours after the chambers were opened. There was no effect upon the color of the fabrics and the leather saddles were apparently undamaged. A careful examination revealed no living moths or larvae. In order to make certain of the latter, an attempt was made to incubate some of the larvae, but without success.

In another instance there was a fire station, the second floor of which was used for quarters. This building was infested with cockroaches. The first floor contained one room, the second ten rooms, two halls, and a large closet. Under one quarter of the building there was a basement. For the fumigation of this structure 20 three-gallon crocks were used—two in the basement, five on the first floor, and thirteen on the second floor. Each of them contained 1,500 cubic centimeters of water and 1,500 cubic centimeters of commercial hydrochloric aid. Three harges of six ounces sodium cyanide and three ounces sodium chlorate were used in each crock.

All the windows and outside doors were closed and the generators were started at 8 a. m. After five hours windows and doors were opened and fifteen minutes later the building was free of gas. A large number of dead crockroaches was found and also some bedbugs, although persons living in the building had not noticed the latter before that time. None of the furnishings of the rooms had been affected by the gas, nor had the silverware. The nickel and brass fittings, however, were tarnished.

A bakery which had become infested with flour weevils and cockroaches was treated with this gas and the experiment proved successful. The attic of a building used as quarters at Edgewood Arsenal, Maryland, was filled with bats. Every effort

DAVID AND GOLIATH ALL OVER AGAIN.

Somebody lately has revived one of the most ancient and honorable of wheezes. I refer to the time-honored tale of the tall Southerner who unwittingly gave offence to a friend whose feelings were touchy but whose height was diminutive. In fact, the latter was a dwarf. Any side-show would have been glad to give him a place among its star exhibits.

The big fellow was not cognizant of having insulted his high-tempered acquaintance until he felt a sudden jab in his stomach.

Naturally, he looked down. The little man, standing on tiptoe, was beating wtih two determined but puny fists at his breadbasket.

"Say," demanded the victim of this assault, "what in thunder are you trying to do?"

Between blows the infuriated midget answered back:

"By Gad, suh, I'm fighting, suh!"

Most of the old-style kitchen sinks now in use are hopelessly insanitary and set so low as to be "back-breaking" to work at. What Does School Levy Mean?

Editor Review:

A lot of us have spent evenings listening to the "explanations" of the school board in regard to the proposed levy for the schools. Many of us thought we understood it—but do we? "A postage stamp a day" for the man who was paying on $3,000 valuation seemed very enlightening, and easy to figure for a single year. Each could easily figure it up for a single year. The question of HOW MANY YEARS this was to keep up was answered by the officials with the simple statement, "Of course, for the life of the bonds." This was the limit of the explanation. A further explanation might have killed a few votes.

The one thing we all seem to have forgotten to ask and insist on learning was the EXACT NUMBER OF YEARS this relief was for and the total sum of money which we would have to pay if the limitation levy passed.

Section II of the published notice says, "for a period of years not exceeding the life of the bonds or notes, at the rate for each year of not exceeding 2.3 mills on each dollar."

What is the life of the bonds? Let us take the high school and Neville Institute bonds for $121,000.00. They are paid off at the rate of $3,000 a year. It is evident that it will take 40 years to pay them off—therefore, it is safe to assume that the present asked for levy will run for 40 years.

Since the taxable valuation of the East Liverpool School district amounts to approximately $34,000,000, this proposed levy of 2.3 mills (which is $2.23 per $1,000) can be made to produce an annual revenue of aproximately $75,820.00 EACH YEAR for the NEXT 40 YEARS.

A 2.23 mill levy for 40 years would produce a total of about $3,032,800. We believe the board when they say it is their intention to collect only the amount necessary to pay off outstanding bonds and interest, but as the legal notice reads we apparently would vote them (or their successors during the 40 years) the power to later change their minds.

Even though the asked-for levy was not enforced to the full amount of 2.23 but declined after 1929, as their statement of bonds shows, it is very apparent that the issue before us would still leave us in the equivalent position of voting a new bond issue to the sum total of all outstanding bonds, or around $616,740.00. Then the interest will amount to probably $900,000.00, so the sum total we are to vote to pay off is one and one-half million dollars.

If an answer is made to this communication, it is to be hoped that it will be specific, and official. I would like to see an official answer to all above statements printed in these columns and hope every person who reads this will look for and read the official statement.

Respectfully,
TAXPAYER.

Haskin's Letter

had been made to drive them out, but unsuccessfully. Finally it was decided to give them the gas treatment. When the building was entered, dead bats were found clinging to rafters and many had dropped to the floor. A couple were able to make them way out of openings it had been impossible to seal, but died shortly after dropping to the ground.

And the Bats Had Bugs.

Probably one of the most interesting features of this particular experiment is that these dead bats were found to be actually infested not only with lice but with bedbugs. While it has always been said that bats carry such pests, it was believed by many that this was perhaps more of a myth than a reality.

The public health service has used cyanogen chloide gas mixtures as the regular gas for fumigation purposes on ships and has issued accordingly a very strict set of regulations. These provide that a written statement must be obtained from the master of the vessel or his representative that the vessel is ready for fumigation, and that all of the crew, personnel, passengers, or others, have been accounted for as not being in or on the vessel, except those specifically authorized by the medical officer or fumigator in charge for the purpose of assisting in the fumigation.

All employes of the public health service who are engaged in the fumigation of vessels with cyanogen chloride are required to take a course of instruction in the proper care and use of gas masks.

The regulations also set forth the particular strength of the mixture, and the necessary length of exposure according to the purpose for which it is to be used. These requirements vary in the destruction of mosquitos, fleas, bedbugs, lice, roaches, moths and rodents.

Experiments have also been made by the department of agriculture in the use of cyanogen chloride gas mixture for fumigating certain types of plants. It was reported that it was this gas which was used in the execution of criminals in one of the western states some time ago. However, there was no official confirmation of this report.

It appears that this gas mixture has a varied number of uses, and may save the government considerable money. However, it is also shown that the danger from its careless or improper use is such that the ordinary layman should not by this method undertake to rid his house of any pest which may be annoying to him.

CARBICELLA AND FUSCO CITE REASONS FOR NEW TRIAL

MOTION FILED IN WELLSVILLE BRIBERY COUNT

Thirteen Grounds are Given in Defense Motion.

NO DATE SET

Alleged to Have Offered $390 to Sheriff.

Thirteen reasons for a new trial have been set up in a motion filed in common pleas court in the case of the state of Ohio against Rocco Carbicella and Frank Fusco, of Wellsville, convicted by a jury Thursday on a bribery count. Both men were charged with offering Sheriff George Wright $390 to "lay off" further investigations in the murder of James Kenney in Wellsville the morning of May 17, last.

When Judge W. H. Spence will hear argument on the motion has not been determined. The text of the motion follows:

"Now comes the defendants and moves the court to set aside the verdict rendered by the jury in this cause and grant a new trial to the defendants for the following reasons:

"The verdict is against the weight of the evidence.

"The indictment does not charge a crime under the laws of Ohio.

"The verdict is contrary to law.

"Errors of law occurring at the trial excepted to at the time by the defendants.

"Court erred in overruling the demurrer or objection of the defendants to the introduction of any evidence under said indictment for the reason that the same did not charge a crime under the laws of Ohio.

"Misconduct on the part of Prosecuting Attorney Robert Brookes, in the presence of the jury, wherein he stated, in substance, that he believed the defendants were connected with the murder of one James Kenney, which statement prejudiced the defendants from having a fair and impartial trial.

"Court erred in overruling the motion of the defendant, Frank Fusco, at the close of the state's testimony, to quash the indictment against the defendant and dismiss the case from the jury.

"Court erred in overruling the motion of the defendants at the close of the testimony of the state to quash the indictment and to take the case from the jury.

"Court erred by relinquishing his control of the conduct of the trial while final arguments were being made to the jury, by absenting himself from said court room on three different occasions; one occasion being for more than a period of 10 minutes in another room, other than the court room in which the trial was held; court being recalled to determine a question of law or right of argument to the jury.

"Court erred in permitting evidence of the state over the objection of the defendants as shown by the record excepted to at the time.

"Court erred in refusing to permit the introduction of testimony offered by the defendants as shown by the record and objected to at the time.

"Misconduct on the part of the sheriff of Columbiana county who was the state's principal witness, in mingling and conversing with some of the jurors in front of the court house; just prior to the final argument of the counsel of the state.

"Court erred in his charge as to what constituted the law applicable to this case. There is apparent error in the court's charge."

The motion for the new trial was signed by Attorneys W. A. O'Grady and Ben L. Bennett, counsel for the defendants, and was filed with Clerk of Courts Frank Ballantine by O'Grady.

FIRE DESTROYS M'ARDLE HOME AT CITY LIMIT

Four-room, Single Story Frame Structure Razed.

APPEAL FOR AID

Loss Is Estimated at Approximately $2,500.

Fire, of undetermined origin, completely destroyed the four-room one-story frame residence owned by Mr and Mrs. John McArdle, located over the bank from the Wellsville-Lisbon road, a few hundred feet north of the corporate limit, this morning at 9 o'clock.

The house was unoccupied when neighbors observed flames and smoke issuing from the windows.

McArdle, a laborer, was employed with the city's repair gang in cleaning out the McQueen's Run Hollow sewer in the west end of the city and his wife, who is employed in an East Liverpool pottery, had gone there to draw her wages.

The flames spread rapidly and despite a quick run, the local fire department was unable to extinguish the blaze although several nearby buildings, which were endangered for a time, were saved from destruction.

The McArdle home and all their possessions, with the exception of the clothing they wore this morning, went up in smoke at a loss estimated at approximately $2,500.

Residents of the neighborhood, cognizant of the family's straitened circumstances as a result of their loss, today appealed to the city for immediate contributions of clothing, bedding, food and other necessities sufficient to accommodate them until they are able to readjust themselves to conditions.

Temporarily they expect to live in a small building nearby the ruins of their home.

Girl Appeals for Levy

For more than a decade, the schools of our city have carried a heavy debt, a debt which was created by the compulsory erection of certain buildings. Finally the bonded indebtedness became so large that when the annual premium and interest of the loans were paid, there was not sufficient of the money left to run the schools. For several years the school board provided for the annual deficit by making a loan; but that expedient can no longer be used, for the schools have reached the limit of their borrowing power. Since January, 1926, they have been permitted to borrow no more money.

In 1927 the school board must pay $30,984 of interest beside $53,000 principal. When this is paid, if the levy does not pass, and not being able to borrow more money, they will not have sufficient funds to carry on the entire next school year. Thus only about five months of school will be held.

Approval of the levy means that this indebtedness could be paid by and would not have to be taken from funds which should be used for carrying on the schools. If this tax does not pass, it means that those in school next year may be compelled to take two years to complete one year, and if the school is closed before the year's work is completed, those in the 1927 senior class will not graduate next year and in the case of a large number, to not graduate at all. Before the next year they will have found some place in the work of the world and school days will have ended. Some are in school today, who are kept there by the sacrifices of parents and in many cases by the hard efforts of the students themselves. The community should see that these parents, and students are not disappointed in their laudable efforts to give their children, and in the case of the students, to gain for themselves, the advantages of an education.

This 2.3 mill levy will be used to pay off debts and not to increase the salaries of the teachers, although they without doubt deserve more than they are receiving. Perhaps you may say "We have excellent and capable teachers in our schools at the present time." Yes, we do, but did you ever stop to think why we have those teachers with the salaries we pay? The best of them could at any time go to more remunerative positions in other cities, and are here only because of the ties of home. That condition will not always exist.

If this millage does not pass, no teacher will be given a contract for more than six months. What teacher wishes to sign a contract for six months? None.

Our schools will be lowered in standard and our high school, which has held a first class standard since 1903, will be lowered to a second or third class.

Let us take an interest in the intellectual standard of our community and remembering all these facts, boost the 2.3 mill school levy and vote for it on Tuesday, November 2.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—A downward movement in industrial stock prices at the beginning of trading today resulted from the fairly heavy influx of selling orders since the close of Friday's irregular session, combined with the usual short selling of the professionals. After these orders had been absorbed the market firmed up with U. S. Steel common nad General Motors leading a modest rally.

The testimony of the week-end economic and business surveys of Dun's, Bradstreet's and leading Wall Street bankers was all in favor of constructive developments in business over the year-end. Recessions in important lines were admitted, but these were not expected to reach the proportions forecasted by socalled economic agencies. Better results are anticipated from the retail trade.

After an early decline to 135½, U. S. Steel common climbed aggressively to 138¼. Judge Gary's spech has put at rest all fears of destructive competition for American steel business with the European manufacturers, and inspired confidence in investors with respect to American steel stocks.

BEAUTY QUEST CAUSED DEATH OF HARRY GREB

Sanitarium Head Puts Blame on Plastic Surgery.

SKULL WEAKENED

Former Chester, W. Va., Girl at Fighter's Bedside.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Oct. 23.—Harry Greb's death was indirectly traceable to his efforts to have his features improved by plastic surgery, according to a statement issued today by Dr. Borenda Weinberg, head of the private sanitarium at which the fighter succumbed yesterday. The physician declared that Greb's nose and skull had been weakened by numerous "beauty" operations and that this probably caused a cerebral hemorrhage when he attempted to remove a small bone that had been pressing on the fighter's brain, following a broken nose sustained in an auto accident several weeks ago.

Dr. Weinberg added that the operation was a "kill or cure" proposition, as he considered that Greb couldn't have lived six months without it. The sanitarium also performed the operations in plastic surgery, which included the removal of an obstruction in the nasal passages and the eradication of a scar on the forehead.

Fiancee at Bedside.

Miss Naomi Braden, former Chester girl, fiancee of Harry Greb, Pittsburgh, former middleweight ring champion, was at the bedside of the boxer when he died at a private sanitarium in Atlantic City, yesterday afternoon.

Miss Braden's parents resided in the vicinity of Hookstown, Pa., but she lived in Chester for several years before going to Pittsburgh about three years ago. She was employed formerly as a clerk in the C. T. McCutcheon drug store, Fifth street, Chester. She is a sister of Mrs. J. V. Swearingen, Indiana avenue, Chester.

then thought I might have made a mistake."

"Don't Papa," Screams One Child.

The family, which is motherless, occupied the top of a two and a half story house. Marion and Edna slept together in one room, while Florence and Mildred slept in another.

Marion awakened suddenly this morning and saw her father standing in the bedroom, muttering. In one hand he held a lighted lamp, in the other the ax. Even as Marion's startled eyes took in the situation, the crazed man swung the ax high and brought it down on Edna's head.

"Don't papa, don't," Marion screamed as she leaped from the bed.

In a frenzy, the father turned on her and swung. Marion skipped and dodged. A second swing, and the blunt side of the ax struck her on the side and sent her flying from the bedroom. The child kept her feet and fled from the house.

Find Man With Ax in Hand.

At Court and Maine streets she met Howard Gurney, of No. 85 Walnut street, who ran with her to the police station.

Meantime Stoddard had gone into the other bedroom and with two strokes of the ax had disposed of his other two daughters. Mildred, her head almost severed, was killed instantly. In her arms she clasped in death her treasured doll.

Police arriving on the run, found the neighborhood in confusion, having been awakened by Marion's screams. The officers went to the Stoddard apartment. In the kitchen they found Stoddard, standing apparently in a daze, the bloody ax still in his hand. He submitted to arrest quietly and was handcuffed.

City physician A. F. Peterson, believed he detected signs of life in Florence and Edna, ordered them taken to Brooklyn City hospital. Florence was dead on arrival, and Edna died a few minutes later.

Lost Job After Drinking Spell.

The police said that Stoddard, about two weeks ago, started a drinking spree and lost his job. He stopped drinking on Monday, the police alleged.

CITY AWARDS ST. CLAIR JOB

George B. Patterson, Wellsville, Given Amiesite Contract.

Contract for the resurfacing of St. Clair avenue from Youngs alley to the north line of the J. T. Croxall property was awarded by the board of control today to George B. Patterson, of Wellsville. The street will be surfaced with amiesite, which according to the contractor, is a patented asphaltic material.

Patterson's bid was the only one submitted by contractors a week ago which was within the engineer's estimate. Patterson's offer was $8,280.17 as compared to the engineer's estimate of $9,174.99. The Ohio Willite Paving and Surfacing company, of East Liverpool asked $9,262.97 for asphaltic concrete and $9,624.27 for sheet asphalt.

The contract was not awarded, according to Mayor Benedum and Service-Safety Director Moore, comprising the board of control, until a thorough investigation was made as to the merits of amiesite. The mayor, director, City Engineer Clapsaddle, City Auditor McGraw and Water Works Clerk Frank Robinson, yesterday visited in Niles where they inspected several streets which had been improved with amiesite. These streets, the visitors were told by the Niles mayor, were constructed two years ago and show no signs of wear or cracking. Some of these streets are resurfacing jobs while others are new in construction, city officials said.

Patterson is now grading and surfacing Avondale street. He was given the Fourth street surfacing job but work on the contract has been held up by a court injuction granted Frank Swaney of the Ohio Willite Paving and Surfacing company, one of the unsuccessful bidders.

Patronize Your Home Merchant.

BOOST EAST LIVERPOOL
YOUR TOWN

Do Your Bit-
Trade at Home

If the town has a lot of empty houses, vacant store buildings and idle factories, there can be no substantial value to property. Therefore, to keep the stores rented, the dwellings occupied and a general good tone to property values, it is necessary that you give your home people your entire support. Patronizing out of town stores is not altogether limited to poor people or to people who do not know the hurt they are doing the home town, but often we find some well known and well-to-do person receiving goods from out of town stores. This is more through thoughtlessness and of being mislead by embellished and highly exaggerated descriptions of goods in newspapers which, in the big majority of cases, are great disappointments when received. Trade at Home—Always. Help build up the Home Town and the beautiful countryside. Remember, we are all interdependent and it behooves everyone of us to be loyal and do our bit.

It's as plain as a pikestaff that the dollar you take out of town seldom comes back. If you spend your dollar in town it stays here. It circulates in the community. It is a living thing. The dollar goes to the butcher, the baker. It goes to the printer. The local merchant with whom you spend it pays it out in wages. It makes for the individual well being. It makes for the community well being.

Therefore circulate your dollars in town. Be a community builder. It might be well to emphasize the fact that you cannot do any better out of town than you can right here with our local merchants.

With that fact confronting you, why hesitate about spending your dollars with the home merchants? The local merchants are progressive and a part of the community in which you live and in which you are vitally interested. They'll give you value received for every dollar you spend.

Besides, they'll circulate that dollar of yours in town. It will stay here. If you take it out of town you are injuring the community. You are injuring your neighbor. You are injuring yourself.

CIRCULATE YOUR DOLLAR HERE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—With managerial heads bounding merrily off the guillotine in a really disorderly manner, it is a pleasure to relate that the directors of the Brooklyn Dodgers will hold their annual meeting today and that Wilbert Robinson, fat without being at all fatuous, will be retained as manager of the ball club. There had been some talk of Wilbert taking the air, which is the only thing that comes gratis around Ebbets field, but apparently the boys thought better of the idea.

My information is that Robbie will be returned to his old job as plain and unvarnished bench manager and that Larry Sutton, the scout, will be elevated to the presidency. So much for that.

Simultaneously, comes the information that Dave Bancroft has decided to stick with the Boston Braves, leaving the field in Pittsburgh open to Fred Clarke, Arthur Fletcher and the rest of the pack. Judge Emil Fuchs probably had decided that one long ago, Banny being his property and none others.

However, it is interesting to hear that Bancroft has abandoned the Pittsburgh idea, because it never was a very good one, anyhow. The field is open there only as long as Clark decides to leave it so. Fred could have had the job at any time during the last dozen years and he can have it now if he wants it, which I am pleased to doubt.

It may be, however, that Clarke's hand has been forced by the wholesale release of Max Carey, Bill McKechnie, Stuffy McInnis and gents with kindred ambitions and that he will listen to the slick, city words of Dreyfuss or that already he has done so.

Anyhow, the chances of Arthur Fletcher taking over the assignment are not esteemed so highly by those who know their eggplants. John A. Heydler is perfectly devoted to his umpires and Arthur loves them dearly, too. The only trouble is that he loves them most on the other end of a right cross and Mr. Heydler regards this purely emotional expression as one that shouldn't be encouraged.

They say that Fletcher, once out of the National league, will find it extremely difficult to return. This, to my way of thinking, would be a loss mutually felt by Fletcher and the National league.

Lee Fohl's departure from Boston might bring Fletcher into the American league in charge of the Red Sox. This probably would be all right with Arthur, who has spent the last few seasons with the Phillies, has corns on his shoulder blades and is impervious to suffering. It also is regarded as a possibility that he will land the St. Louis Browns.

As for Fohl's visit with Dreyfuss, the most logical interpretation if any, is that Lee might become coach of the Pirate pitchers, both of them. That kind of thing is right down Lee's alley while the managerial business seems to be right down his windpipe.

Harry Greb, Former Middle Champ, Dies In Atlantic City

HARRY GREB

Harry Greb, of Pittsburgh, former middleweight champion of the world, died yesterday in an Atlantic City sanitarium following an operation on his nose. He never recovered from the anaesthetic.

The operation on the boxer's nose was resorted to in an attempt to relieve pressure at the floor of the skull caused by the fracture of a bone in the nose in a recent automobile accident.

Tackling the combined Cleveland Indians Favorite Knits tomorrow afternoon at Kilgus Field, the recently reorganized Toronto Tigers will go into the "crucial" game class right off the reel instead of waiting until midschedule for the Fifth City outfit boasts strength enough to give the Tigers more than a battle, despite the strong array of talent lined up by the Jefferson countians.

The visiting squad will have such performers as Michaels, of Iowa; Bozeman, Texas Aggies; Crawford, Michigan; A. Paney, of California; J. ITALIAN HEAVY IS ELIMINATED

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—One potential heavyweight champion has joined the dodo bird and the great auk today and another has failed to improve his standing as a result of the second session of Tex Rickard's elimination tournament held at Madison Square Garden last night.

Arthur Dekuh, giant Italian, passed over the horizon when Jimmy Maloney, the plump Boston Irishman, flattened him in two rounds after flooring him eight times and Monte Munn of Nebraska failed to add to his reputation when he was awarded the decision over Cal Carter, at the end of seven poor rounds. Carter was disqualified because he wouldn't fight. Munn was willing to battle but Carter was not.

Dekuh failed to show anything but a long chin that seemed to gravitate into the orbit of Maloney's wild swings while Munn, although winning with ease, appeared to lack his usual aggressiveness and the willingness to take chances. Carter, however, refused to fight or even entertain any ideas along that line.

State Authorities To Close Up Guilford Park Property Deals

Representatives of the office of Attorney General C. C. Crabbe, Columbus, arrived in Lisbon yesterday for the purpose of closing all details having to do with the property which will be included in the proposed Guilford Lake park in Hanover township.

Numerous delays have taken place at Columbus recently in connection with the purchase by the state of the land which will be taken over for the new park. Abstracts for the property were delivered at Columbus about two months ago.

E. H. Campbell, Salem, who has been vitally interested in the proposed park ever since the Columbiana County Fish and Game Protective association launched a move for a state fish hatchery, has announced that the deal for the property will be closed within 30 days. Work on the construction of the dam will be started early next spring.

County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk has already filed with the department of public works at Columbus plans for the dam and other proposed improvements.

Toledo Beaten Again.

TOLEDO, Oct. 23.—Toledo university's football team today is preparing for a campaign of training to stop its string of defeats. The eleven yesterday was defeated by the fast Bluffton college squad, 13 to 7. It was the third successive defeat for the local team.

DARTMOUTH 2-1 FAVORITE OVER HARVARD SQUAD

Yale Not Excited Over Possibilities of Brown Game.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—The Dartmouth-Harvard, Navy-Colgate and Yale-Brown games head today's football menu in the east, while metropolitan fans has a surfeit of gridiron dishes served for them with the Fordham-Washington and Jefferson, Columbia-Duke and Rutger-New York University contests all being played in this city.

Encouraged by Dartmouth's defeat at the hands of Yale and by the marked improvement of their own eleven, Harvard was ready to prove that the betting odds of 2 to 1 in Dartmouth's favor were all wrong. Yale was not unduly excited over the Brown game, but a close contest was expected between Navy and Colgate.

Penn faces a fairly easy contest with Williams while a green Penn State team was favored to defeat Syracuse's crippled eleven, which only a week ago was hailed as a potential championship aggregation. Princeton, smarting under her defeat by the Navy, was determined to roll up a big score against Lehigh.

Army anticipated an easy victory over Boston University. The West Virginia-West Virginia Wesleyan game marked a clash between bitter rivals and Western Maryland was hopeful of snapping the winning streak of Holy Cross.

CHICAGO CHARITY FIGHT FAILURE

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—The Bennett boxing show staged by the state athletic commission for the relief of Illinois flood sufferers, was a disappointment, O. W. Huncke, of the commission, announced today.

Only 2,041 fans attended. The gate amounted to $5,438.

Jackie Snyder, of New York, and Ray Miller, of Chicago, fought the main event. Snyder was awarded the decision in the second round on a foul. Miller hit him low and the New Yorker sank to the floor in agony. Dr. J. P. O'Connell examined Snyder and said he was unable to continue.

Al Van Ryan, of St. Paul, won a decision over Jimmy Finley, of Louisville, in the ten round semi-final. Ernie Peters, of Chicago, won an eight-round decision over "Irish" Mickey Gill, of Dublin, Ireland, and Henry Usse, of New York, and Paul Allen, of Chicago, went eight rounds to a draw.

Harry Forbes, Columbus, O., bantam scored the cleaner punches and was awarded the verdict over Joe Ryder, of Brooklyn, in an eight round preliminary. It was one of the most interesting bouts on the card.

PENN STATE SET FOR "COME BACK"

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Oct. 23.—Penn State was primed for a come back this afternoon at the expense of Syracuse, the local eleven having rallied nicely from its overwhelming defeat by Notre Dame last Saturday. The Orange was forced to enter the game in a crippled condition, owing to the loss of Carr, star back and the resignation from the squad of Baysinger, first string quarterback.

So hard pressed for backfield men was Pete Reynolds that he announced he would have Captain Vic Hanson call the signals from his position at end.

50,000 To Take In Ohio State--Iowa Tilt At Columbus

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 23.—With fair weather forecast and conditions satisfactory under foot, a thrilling gridiron contest is anticipated here this afternoon when Ohio State University's eleven meets the Iowa team at Ohio stadium. The game will start at 2 p. m., Eastern Standard time.

The event will mark the Scarlet and Gray's initial game of the Western Conference season. It will be the second conference game for the Hawkeyes. Both teams, it is reported, are in fine condition. Indications are that approximately 50,000 persons will witness the game.

Elmer Marek, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, flash, is scheduled to go in at left half for Ohio State when the game opens. Kruskamp will start the game at right half. Freddie Grim, who played a star game against Columbia last Saturday, and Byron Eby, are expected to alternate with Marek and Kruskamp during the game.

Urbana Bemoans Fluke.

URBANA, O., Oct. 23.—Local football enthusiasts continued today to bemoan the fluke which allowed the Sidney team a victory over the locals, 6 to 0. In the first quarter Sidney blocked a punt, the ball rolling to within a yard of the goal posts. Sidney then pushed it over for the lone touchdown.

CRUCIAL GAMES AS BIG 10 HITS HALF WAY POST

Michigan-Illinois and State-Iowa Tilts Features.

By George A. Strickler.

CHICAGO, Oct. 23. — "Crucial games," a phase as old as football's best known jibe, "Stagg fears Purdue," is revived again as teams in the Western Conference slide by the halfway post in their schedules today, mixing in some of the outstanding contests of the day.

The Big Ten title will be unofficially bestowed upon the winner of the Michigan-Illinois game at Ann Arbor, while Ohio State, matched with Iowa at Columbus, engages in its first conference game of the season and Chicago experiences a similar thrill against Purdue.

The first two shape up as battles for kings, promising to be replete with the sensational. At Ann Arbor the multitudes anticipate much over head play, a couple of field goals, and a Wolverine victory.

Brilliant runs, or their near kind, will be the entertainment expected from Karow and Marek, Ohio stars, and Kutsch, the Iowa cowboy. Ohio will start a varsity team including six sophomores in their first conference time, but is the favorite nevertheless.

The nomads of Notre Dame will headline in Chicago, meeting the wildest of Glen Thistlethwaites' Northwestern Wildcats before a dignified gathering of some 40,000 persons, including Vice President Charles Dawes.

For two years the Wildcats have pushed Notre Dame to the limit, and although confident of victory, Rockne has marched 79 of his 99 performers into Evanston. That probably explains his confidence. Flashy sprints and startling spirals undoubtedly will also feature this game.

Wisconsin meets Indiana at Madison in what will probably be whatever the Badgers care to make it. On the midway at Chicago Purdue is doped to win its first game in years from Choirmaster Stagg and the Maroon Glee club. The Chicago-Purdue game looms as the greater football game of the two—whatever that means.

Minnesota and Wabash will do four quarters for the benefit of the Gophers in their argument with Wisconsin at Madison next week, the Little Giants threatening the conference entrant with everything but defeat.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON,
Maker of 81 Golf Champions.
"Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

One of the most valuable shots in golf and the one the good golfer is always master of, is the short pitch or run-up to the pin. And the thing that ruins this seemingly simple shot most often is the unconscious habit of looking up. The golfer will do well always to remind himself of the danger of looking up on these shots. Better still is to give yourself a habit that will prevent it largely, and the best of habits in this respect is to turn the head to the right while making this shot. Thus you look at the ball apparently with the left eye only and you will observe that the clearness with which you see it makes it look like a croquet ball. With the head thus turned you pretty nearly see the clubhead go through, as you should. This practice will save you many a dubbed run-up and also will enable you now and then to get down with one putt.

Wellsville-Salem Clash Heads List; Locals At Toronto

Columbiana county scholastic football interest this afternoon is centered chiefly on the Salem-Wellsville battle at Hammond park, Wellsville, in a clash that will provide the first real test of the campaign for the Orange and Black.

East Liverpool's Blue and White will sojourn for the day in Toronto and are anticipating anything but an easy contest, with Bromby and McConville, backfield stars, and Captain Dick Larkins, center, out of the lineup.

Leetonia, recovering from the effects of a 28 to 0 drubbing administered last Saturday at Wellsville, will be idle.

Lisbon is slated for an engagement at East Palestine and advance dope places the East Palestine eleven in the position of favorites.

Ray Wilde's Chester eleven, improving as the season goes along, also will draw no small amount of interest in its clash with Wellsburg at Chester.

GLITTER

By Katharine Brush

BOOK FOUR—XI.

He was sitting in the lobby of the Biltmore, waiting for Bill Olmstead, who had vowed he would be there at four sharp but who at four-thiry had not arrived. Bill was now employed in a New York bank, where, according to him, he "filled inkwells," and he and Jock met now and then to lay new fuel on the embers of their campus intimacy. Today they were thoroughly to investigate an unconfirmed report that there was genuine Bacardi to be had at a drug store on Forty-fifth street, by the simple expedient of asking for Mr. Wilson, giving Mr. Wilson certain moneys, and observing that Mr. Mercer (articulated clearly or all's lost) sent you to him.

The afternoon was Friday, the month November, and the Biltmore lobby swarmed with chattering humans who later in the day, or early the next day, would hie them down to Princeton for the gridiron classic. Spruce long-legged boys, big-eyed girls, portly dowagers, in endless panorama. Jock watched interestedly, making mental comments. "Gee, pretty! No, she isn't, not near to. Lotta girls disappoint you that way. One thing about Yvonne, she doesn't. . . . Don't see a soul I know. Funny, how soon you lose touth. . . . That lad's pretty well oiled. They'll have to wake him for the touchdowns tomorrow if he keeps that up. . . . Twenty bucks' worth of orchids and a dime's worth of woman — who went crazy there, I wonder? . . . Why do girls shriek so? 'Hello, people' at the top of her lungs. Could say 'Hello, Brooklyn' and it would carry all right. . . . Hate that type of fellow. . . . What's that on her stockings, oil or a birthmark? . . . Wonder where he got that suit. Not bad. . . . There's what's-his-name. Best punter Princeton ever had. Selling insurance now, but still walks as though he heard cheering. . . . Say, where the hell's Bill, anyway?"

He glanced up at the clock again, and was on the point of rising to leave when a voice at his ear said blithely, "You look nice, I guess I'll sit by you!"

He turned his head—

"Peg!"

"Guilty."

They shook hands with great gusto. She was, Jock perceived, the same Peg. Same laughing eyes, same infectious grin, same impudent, pert pug nose. . . . The mere sight of that nose made him feel suddenly gleeful. "It's still there!" he exclaimed, involuntarily, and quite inanely.

"What's still there?"

"Your nose—"

This struck them both as excruciatingly funny, and they rocked with muffled mirth, pressing their mouths tight shut and puffing out their cheeks. "You bet it's there!" Peg said, when the paroxysm had abated a little. "That's my trade-mark. Peg, Limited. The Nose With a Smile. Ask the Man Who Owns One—say, you knew I was married, didn't you? Of course you did, you were the bum who wouldn't come up to Boston for my wedding but sent me a pretty pickle dish or something. One of these days I'll write and thank you, but until then let's let it go because I'm not at all sure it was a pickle dish—sorry, but you know how weddings are—we drew five hundred and three presents, five hundred of them pickle dishes, so that I'm considering putting a notice in the paper, 'All those who sent pickle dishes to Johnny Havens and spouse'—"

"Hold up!" cried Jock. "Are you going to talk all night, woman? Let me get in a few questions. What are you doing in New York? Where's your husband? And all about it. Bones never writes, you know. I had a string of simple postcards from him from abroad, but I haven't had a word since he got back—except a recipe for making beer, all by itself in an envelope. What's he up to, the old son-of-a-gun?"

"He's working for dad. At least, he thinks he is—dad, of course, thinks differently. Son-of-a-gun is right, he almost broke up my wedding! He was best man, you know, and instead of attempting to cheer poor Johnny up he kept whispering 'She snores,' and little brotherly things like that, all the time I was moseying down the aisle! What else did you ask me? Oh, yes—why, we're living here. Down in Greenwich Village. Johnny's father owns the New York Log, and Johnny—here he comes now! On time, for once in his life. Act as if you're in love with me, Jock—I think that's good for husbands—"

People were always conscious of a surprised sensation the first time they saw Johnny Havens. This was because his hair was extremely blonde, almost white, and his eyes and eyebrows were coal black—a combination so startling that you required a second or two in which to accustom yourself to it. After that you discovered that he was very handsome, and big with a bigness that reminded you of things. Outdoor things. The crack of a shot in th eforest. The cut of a boat through wings of spray. Camp fires, and piney air, and gray flannel shirts with corduroy trousers. . . . All of which, in view of the fact that he was suited by Brooks Brothers, worked at journalism, and seldom went out of New York if he could help it, was quite absurd.

Jock had never met a man he liked so well on sight, and as the four of them (Bill Olmstead had arrived, breathless and propitiatory, on the heels of Johnny) sat drinking tea around a table a little later, the liking grew into something deep and strong and destined to last. And mutual. Every so often the wash of the world eddies together two souls so essentially congenial that they admire each other at once, love each other thereafter, and entertain each other to the point where everything said by one, however slight, excites the risibilities of the other. Jock and Johnny were thus. Either of them had only to say "Pass the salt," and the other howled and clapped him on the back.

So they had a hilarious tea party, taking it all in all, and Jock enjoyed himself hugely. At the same time he was conscious of tiny pangs of envy. Peg and Johnny were so happy! Even though they joked about their marriage, teased one another, you could not miss the contented undertone, and it gave you a feeling of standing shivery-cold and looking through a window at firelight. Jock tried hard to shrug away this feeling. "In just a couple of months now—" he kept telling himself, and he wondered why he was not comforted.

"I'll tell you what we'll do," said Peg, who adored to arrange. "We'll lap up this tea and stuff, and then we'll all go 'round to our place and call up some people and have a bender. Tomorrow's Johnny's and my anniversary—six weeks married and no bureaus heaved by either party—and something ought to be done about it. Jock, you get your Yvonne—I've been dying to clap eyes on that woman ever since the day you raved about her for two hours straight and never repeated yourself once—"

"Can't," interrupted Jock, grinning. "I work nights. Didn't Bones tell you?"

"For the love of Pete, are you still doing that?"

"I am."

Peg sat back in her chair, looking reproachful, and brandished a teaspoon at her husband. "Listen, Johnny! Listen while I tell you the tale of another good man gone wrong. This bunny you see before you, endowed by God with all the—Ow! Quit that, Jock! Johnny, he's pinching me!"

"Just the same," she said, when peace was restored, "I'm ashamed of you, Jock."

(To be continued)

NEW VAMP TYPE IN "WANING SEX"

Mary McAllister Has Role in Picture at American.

Enter the new type of vamp, the 1926 model. She makes her debut in "The Waning Sex," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture starring Norma Shearer, now at the American theatre.

The tall, slinky, green-eyed mammas whose glossy gowns fit them with the fidelity of court plaster and much less discretion, whose languorous, tabasco glances and ravishing smiles led the weakened victims to doom, have been replaced.

The flapper vamp is now in style. She may be old but it doesn't show, and instead of dragging her victims in with a hard-boiled "Kiss me, fool," she lures them with baby-talk and extravagant flattery.

She is blonde and fluffy and helpless, and all she knows about men is that they should be made comfortable. And, boy, she's deadly!

Mary McAlister, once a favorite child star, is personifying the new model vamp in "The Waning Sex."

"Ask any woman with a husband," says Mary, who hasn't one, "and she will admit that the baby-faced, sweet, shy, frightened little widow, grass or sod, is the most dangerous vamp in the world. The kind who looks into a man's face and says, 'Oh, aren't you big and strong and wonderful.' The old-fashioned vamps always commanded their men. They haven't a chance with the vamps that lead them with flattery and the more subtle wiles."

Conrad Nagel is the hero who eludes the wiles of the new-style vamp, and the cast of the picture includes Norma Shearer, star, and George K. Arthur.

NEW STEEL MILL FOR WELLSBURG

Ground Will be Broken Next Month For Huge Plant.

A new steel fabricating mill will be erected at Wellsburg at an approximate cost of $325,000.

Wellsburg citizens Friday night pledged themselves to $50,000 worth of common stock in the new mill, assuring its success.

The major part of the stock has been underwritten by the Ohio Valley Industrial Corporation. At first, when the success of the plan was uncertain, owing to the fact that enough local capital could not be interested, a committee of Wellsburg men journeyed to Steubenville to try to interest the chamber of commerce of that city. Their efforts were unavailing and the plan seemed doomed to failure.

Only $31,000 of the prescribed $50,000 could be raised in Wellsburg. The deadline was set at twelve last night and in the meantime Wheeling business interests had underwritten over $200,000 worth of the stock.

Plans for breaking ground and starting actual construction are already laid and work will start on December 1. The site selected is in the upper portion of the city and is highly desirable as a building site for factories.

The plant will manufacture steel drums and the production will likely exceed 2,500, possibly nearer the 3,000 mark. The plant will consume an output of sheet steel equal to that produced by three sheet mills. It will be one of the largest mills of its kind in the country.

EDDIE CANTOR FILM COMING

"Kid Boots" on Screen Monday at Ceramic.

For years Broadway claimed Eddie Cantor as its own. A million and a quarter people saw the musical comedy star in "Kid Boots" during its three-year New York run.

Now, Paramount, through the medium of a superb motion picture version of Florenz Ziegfeld's "Kid Boots," has brought the much lauded show and its star to the screen. "Kid Boots" opens a three-day run Monday at the Ceramic theatre.

Cantor himself is authority for the statement that the screen offers far greater comedy possibilities than the stage. The critical public has acclaimed "Kid Boots" enthusiastically wherever it has been shown, lauding the film as the year's most convincing laugh compeller.

Clean, free-moving comedy, effervescing with funny situations, which clip merrily through a story rent with heart throbs, blend into the picture.

Inimitable Eddie Cantor as the "come-on" of a second-hand store, competing for trade against two burley neighbors, lends ample latitude for the introduction of ingenious comedy. With the entrance of entrancing Clara Bow and her husky would-be lover, Malcolm Waite, Eddie finds himself fairly wallowing in trouble.

The rapid transition of the advancing story to a luxurious apartment, then an exclusive golf club and finally to the court house in a roundabout route which winds through city traffic and over mountain trails and cliffs, causes the laughs to build up in elaborate fashion.

Clara Bow is as subtly impertinent and refreshing as ever as the swimming instructress, and "Kid Boots" introduces the heroine of "Mantrap' in a new surprise to her fans—a bathing suit. Other featured players include lovely Billie Dove, and handsome Lawrence Gray. Frank Tuttle directed from Tom Gibson's screen play.

GIRL JAILED AS SUSPECT IN BANK HOLD-UP

Grace Ford, 25, of Indianapolis, Held at Detroit.

$4,700 IS FOUND

Alleged Part of $40,000 Loot in Robbery.

DETROIT, Oct. 23.—Grace Ford, 25-year-old Indianapolis girl and possessor of a $20,000 wardrobe, was arrested here yesterday after $4,700 in cash, alleged to be part of the $40,000 loot in the holdup of the Union Trust company, Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 15, was found in her room in Indianapolis.

She was found in the Stratford Arms hotel. A companion, Helen Rose, 22, also was arrested.

According to Detective William Brickley, of Indianapolis, who reached Detroit today, the Ford girl is the sweetheart of Jesse Stevens, who has been arrested in Indianapolis in the bank robbery case.

Detective Brickley said that Stevens has confessed to being one of four men who held up the trust company. He implicated three other men who are believed to be hiding in Detroit, according to Brickley. Detroit police agreed to launch a city-wide search for them.

Miss Ford's arrest followed attempts by her to communicate with an Indianapolis criminal attorney to obtain his services in behalf of Stevens, Brickley said. The girl will be returned to Indianapolis on a charge of receiving stolen property.
